STORM VICTIMS' BODIES BURNED

Authorities Act To Avert Pestilence, Priest Rabbi, Minister Flown to Keys

ROCK PREVENTS BURIALS

Cremated Veterans To Rest in Matecumbe Cemetery Where Gale Hit Hardest

By The Associated Press
MIAMI Fla Sept 7—Sheriff D C Coleman directing rescue operations in the lower keys reported to the Red Cross today that burning of bodies of Monday night's storm victims had started

It was after daylight the sheriff said before the first match was applied to a pile of oil soaked bodies

Orders for cremation of bodies which could not be buried quickly were issued by Gov Dave Sholtz on recommendation of state health authorities as a precaution against possible outbreak of pestilence

Clergymen Flown to Area

A priest a rabbi and a minister were flown to Snake creek by coast guard to conduct burial services for the dead

Despite instructions to bury as many victims as possible it appeared likely that few of the bodies would be placed in the ground because of difficulty of digging graves in the coral rock keys

I think it will be necessary to burn virtually all the bodies in the keys said Conrad Van Hyning state welfare commissioner

Relief workers wearied and sickened by sights of horror proceeded as rapidly as possible to dispose of the bodies which Dr Henry Hanson state health officer said were in advanced decomposition

Meanwhile the disturbance which brought the havoc moved on northeastward and caused storm warnings to be posted from Sandy Hook N J to Boston

Food shortage threatened refugees made homeless at Federalsburg Md where flood waters drove more than 300 from their homes Extensive crop and property damage was done to Maryland's eastern shore by wind and rain Tobacco stored in southern Maryland was lost when barns blew down

Wrecking crews still searched for the body of a missing trainman at Wilmington Del where a washout caused a wreck and the death of an engineer

Dr Hanson said that graves to receive the storm dead in the keys could not be dug in the coral rock without dynamite

Some of the victims may be buried in the little Matecumbe cemetery near the place where the storm wrought its greatest havoc but cremation apparently is to be the end for most of them

Here in Miami graves were dug in Woodlawn cemetery to hold the bodies of 125 World war veterans brought out of the storm area

They were killed with comrades and civilians in great numbers when the mad storm slashed the government relief camps where they were quartered on Matecumbe key The Red Cross said the number dead or missing totalled 446

Even though President Roosevelt at Hyde Park N Y still was reluctant to take the step for cremation of the bodies Gov Sholtz and Dr Hanson said it was a question of protecting public health and that bodies which could not be buried immediately in the keys would be burned

ITALY, ETHIOPIA ASKED TO AVOID USE OF TROOPS

Five-Power League Group Says Armed Action Would Hinder Conciliation

BOARD REVIEWS SITUATION

Realizes Problem Hinges on Possibility of Satisfying Duce's Military Ambition

By The Associated Press
GENEVA Sept 7—The five power committee of the League of Nations council dealing with the Italo-Ethiopian crisis today in effect asked the disputants not to resort to force pending efforts to solve their differences peacefully

Although the words not resort to force were omitted from a letter sent to Italy and Ethiopia officials explained that they constituted the officials meaning of the document

The letter repeated the words of an official communique issued after today's session of the committee which said in part that the committee relies upon the governments concerned to refrain from any act which might hinder or compromise its efforts

Situation Reviewed

Today's session of the five power committee was devoted to a review of the east Africa situation

Premier Pierre Laval of France and Anthony Eden of Great Britain told the representatives of Spain Turkey and Poland what happened at the Paris tri-power conversations

The five power committee will hold its next meeting Monday

Members of the five power committee were presented as recognizing fully that the problem turns on the possibility of satisfying Italy's military ambitions in Ethiopia

By The Associated Press
LONDON Sept 7 — Reuters (British) News agency reported today that Premier Mussolini of Italy had assured France that Italy will not resort to war so long as the Italo-Ethiopian dispute is under consideration

Premier Benito Mussolini reserved complete freedom of action his delegates to the League of Nations council which appointed the committee having abstained from voting

Baron Pompeo Aloisi Mussolini's chief delegate will be asked to define exactly Italy's desires so that the committee may know where it stands

Wants Troops in Ethiopia

The League of Nations was proceeding on the theory that Mussolini wants fundamentally controlled disarmament of Ethiopia

This was interpreted to imply presence of Italian troops on Ethiopian soil—troops which would be called police to supervise the Ethiopian army or armed Ethiopian tribesmen

Italian Consuls Ordered Withdrawn

By The Associated Press
ADDIS ABABA Sept 7—Italian Minister Vinci today ordered all Italian consulates in Ethiopia withdrawn

The minister acted on orders received from Premier Mussolini The date for withdrawal was Sept 15

Diplomatic observers feared closing the Italian consulates meant Premier Mussolini was determined to go to war to settle the Italo Ethiopian dispute despite decisions of the League of Nations council at Geneva

USE OF LIQUOR GAINS TO AID AGED OPPOSED

Sponsors of Aid For Aged Plan Want Appropriations Made on Biennial Basis.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS O Sept 7—Original sponsors of the state old age pension law frown upon a plan to use liquor profits to finance pension payments

With $5 000 000 needed for 81 000 pension clients during the last four months of 1935 Gov Davey has said he would ask the legislature to transfer liquor profits to make up the greater portion of this amount

Horace S Keifer of Springfield advised a joint legislative taxation committee Friday night that the use of liquor revenues is one of the principal objections raised by pension advocates

Keifer, a former representative, sponsored the bill when the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Ohio State Federation of Labor initiated the pension plan

These original sponsors, he said, want appropriations made to pay the pensions on a biennial basis the same as for other state departments, and also oppose any particular tax being earmarked to provide revenue.

Marion, Galion Stolen Car Hunt Ends in Comedy

Motorist Returns Auto That Looks Like His But Belongs to Other Fellow.

What started out to be the mystery of the stolen car was solved in the first chapter last night when a Mansfield man enroute home from Marion discovered upon reaching Galion that the automobile he was driving was not his own

It happened like this W M Frost of Mansfield parked his coupe next to one exactly like it in the business section on East Center street early last night When he was ready to make the return trip about 8 45 p m he jumped in the other car which belongs to Ed C Watters of Marion The key was a perfect fit Mr Frost said later

He drove to Galion and stopped at a store before he discovered the automobile was not his own In the meantime Mr Watters had reported to Marion police his automobile stolen and a broadcast to that effect was going over the state highway patrol radio facilities

In a quandary what to do in the situation the Mansfield man reported his mistake to Galion police who notified police here and advised Mr Frost to return the Watters machine to Marion He was given a note in Galion to inform any law enforcement authorities who might stop him as a result of the highway patrol broadcast that the reported car theft was all the result of a mistake

He returned the car to Mr Watters without mishap took his own and proceeded to Mansfield

ROOSEVELT LETTER SENDS WALL STREET ON SPREE

Promising Industrial Future Also Does Much To Send Stocks Soaring to New High.

By FRANK MAC MILLEN
Associated Press Financial Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 7 — Wall Street finished the week today with a burst of figurative cheering and hat tossing

Most observers in the financial district felt that the week had offered much substantial encouragement to business and the securities markets

President Roosevelt's indication that he was near to writing "finis" to the new deal legislative measures and that business could begin to enjoy its long sought "breathing spell" from Washington ranked at the top of Wall Street's gratitude list.

Immediately below that, however, was the continuing evidence that many lines of business were entering the home stretch of 1935 with plenty of strength for the final dash to the year-end business peak.

Carloadings totals for the week of Aug 31, announced Friday, reached a level last equalled in November, 1931, buoying financial hopes in a spot where they have been faintest recently.

PLAN FOR CITY TO MEET BACK BILLS OFFERED

Water Co Attorney Proposes Way To Wipe Out Operating Deficit

TWO POINT PROGRAM

Old Debt of $125 000 for Lights and Hydrants Would Be Paid

A two point program described as a proposal whereby the city of Marion could pay off the large operating deficit it has been carrying from year to year without robbing the city treasury of money needed to carry on essential governmental functions was placed before the finance committee of city council last night by Stuart A Hoover Columbus attorney representing the Marion Water Co

The committee's meeting in the office of City Solicitor Theodore B Ochs announced after the conference it would present the two point program at council meeting Monday night and ask council members for a definite answer Chairman W M Loftin and Robert M Stief members said the committee will have a recommendation ready when it submits the proposals Monday night It wished to study the proposals and confer with the third committee member Harry J Bell before stating what the recommendation will be Mr Bell was unable to attend last night's meeting

In substance the suggestions made by Mr Hoover are (1) that the city loan bonds to be retired by payments of delinquent taxes in future years to pay off the operating deficit of approximately $125 000 that existed as of Dec 31 1934 and (2) that the city refund all of its general obligation bonds to be paid out of taxes levied within the 10 mill limitation falling due in 1936 in order to have more millage inside the limitation free for operating expenses

Utilities Not Paid

Mr Hoover contended the city by these two steps could (1) pay off all of its overdue bills for operating purposes and (2) protect itself from loss of revenue for operating purposes in 1936 In addition he said the water company and the C D & M Electric Co neither of which have received any money to date for payment of hydrant rentals and street lighting in 1935 will give the city substantial discounts if arrangements are made to pay past due bills and keep current bills paid as they fall due

Mr Hoover presented his suggestions to the committee in the form of a letter which he read to the committee He said the company felt it should take up the matter with the committee at this time because the city budget for 1936 which will come before council

TAX OUTLOOK CALLED DARK

Public Officials Meet at Findlay To Study 1936 Funds Situation

TWO MARION MEN THERE

Ten Mill Limitation Seen as Severe Handicap to Subdivisions

Marion city and county financial outlooks for 1936 were among the reports brought before a meeting of county, city and township officers from 20 counties in northwest Ohio yesterday at Findlay

Representing Marion county at the all-day session was Harry V Mounts Marion county auditor while Harry J Bell a member of the city finance committee of the city council, represented the city More than 150 county city and township finance officials from the northwestern district attended the sessions

Reports from finance officials revealed a dark picture for next year Mr Mounts reported several officials declaring that their counties would not be provided with funds for bare necessities county homes and children's homes next year

Round Table Discussion

Sessions were involved in a round table reporting of conditions in each of the 20 counties in an effort to present to the next session of Ohio's general assembly a picture of deplorable financial outlooks for Ohio counties and their political subdivisions

The problem of county city and township finances for 1936 arose from first the fact that the 10 mill levy limitation voted by Ohioans last fall has reduced the amount of taxes county budget commissions can levy and second the school foundation bill passed by the legislature this year requires the budget commission to give to schools set amounts making it difficult for other subdivisions to obtain funds for bare operating expenses, officials say

No effort was made to suggest changes or make demands of the legislature Mr Mounts said Following the reports on county financial outlooks for 1936, district representatives organized a Northwest District association of the

TRUCK DRIVER TELLS STORY OF POLICE ESCAPE

Lamonds Returned To Face Charge of Looting Oil Plant Here

DENIES HE FIRED SHOTS

Prisoner Relates Experience While Manhunt Was in Progress

Sherrill B Lamonds 21 of Greensboro N C said by Prosecuting Attorney Paul D Michel and Sheriff Fred E Miller to have confessed he and a companion burglarized the bulk station of the Pure Oil Co here Aug 21 and then escaped under police gunfire arrived in Marion at noon today in custody of the prosecutor and sheriff

Lamonds they said admitted he was the driver of the truck seized by police after two men hid at the [illegible] during the chase Police had punctured the four rear tires of the truck with gunfire before the two men leaped from it and escaped into nearby fields shortly after 4 a m a few hours after the oil station burglary

Arraignment Set

The prosecutor said Lamonds at first asserted he was not involved in the burglary and the escape from police under gunfire but changed his story as he and the Marion officials returned to Marion by train after leaving Greensboro Thursday He previously had waived extradition permitting the officers to bring him here Greensboro police arrested him a week ago at request of Marion authorities

Lamonds the prosecutor said declared neither he nor his companion had a gun and that no shots were fired at police during the chase that followed the burglary They quoted him as saying police must have mistaken the noise of the truck motor backfiring for gunfire

Police reported that the men in the truck fired three shots at them during the chase and that they did not open fire until after these shots had been fired

Lamonds was quoted as saying he was driving the truck during the chase and that he and his companion protected themselves as best they could when police opened fire He told the prosecutor he saw his companion jump from the truck and shortly afterward he too leaped from the moving vehicle

Separated from Companion

The prosecutor quoted Lamonds as saying he never saw his companion after they became separated as they leaped from the truck

Lamonds was quoted as saying he spent most of the morning of Aug. 21 wandering through fields northwest of the city finally arriving at a pear tree in an open field about daybreak He told the officers he slept near this tree until he was awakened by the noise of the motor of an airplane which police had called into service to aid them in the search

Lamonds said he suspected the plane was out in search of him and consequently crawled close to the base of the pear tree to avoid being seen He said he remained there nearly all day and then started to hike toward Kenton He said he came to a highway after walking about 12 miles and "bummed" his way to Greensboro

TAX YIELD IS LOWER THAN IT WAS IN 1934

June Collection $479,158 Compared With $570,571 Taken in Last Year.

June real estate tax collections brought Marion county $479 158 01, Homer D. Cole, county treasurer, announced today.

The collection for the same period last year yielded $570,571. The decrease is largely due, Mr. Cole said, to a 4.68 mills reduction in the city's tax rate and corresponding cuts in other districts as a result of the 10-mill limitation vote last year.

The June collections are approximately $40,000 less than the last December yield of $521,701, the first collections under the reduced levy. The treasurer said that the Home Owners' Loan Corp., contributed heavily to the December collections by payment of delinquent taxes on property on which it had made loans. HOLC had almost stopped making loans when the June collection started, he said.

This loss in revenue in the June collection and the fact that many persons paid their full year's taxes last December are largely responsible for the difference in yield for the two collection periods.

Increase or decrease in the number of delinquencies will not be known until the treasurer's settlement, with the auditor is made, but Treasurer Cole predicted an increase in delinquencies would result from the fact the Home Owners' Loan Corp, is making but few loans and consequently paying only a fraction of the amount of delinquent taxes in other collection periods of the last two years.

TROOPS GUARD POLLS IN KENTUCKY VOTING

800 National Guards on Duty in Harlan County for Runoff Primary

By The Associated Press

FRANKFORT Ky Sept 7—Eight hundred Kentucky national guardsmen marched into Harlan county today took over the reins of government in the wake of violence and patrolled voting places for the county in the Democratic run-off primary election

Kentucky Democrats were balloting today to nominate candidates for governor and other statewide offices The troop movement to Harlan paralleling a similar occurrence in the first primary Aug 3 which is still reverberating in the courts and a bitter personal fight between Thomas S Rhea and Lieut Gov A B Chandler for the nomination for governor overshadowed all other aspects of the primary

Troops moved into Harlan throughout the night The entire force assembled at the armory for a 3 a m breakfast before breaking up into small groups to guard this strife torn coal mining county's 71 voting places The polls opened at 6 a m

Gov Ruby Laffoon whose administration is backing Rhea specified in his executive order directing troops to Harlan that they should not interfere in the voting

The guardsmen he ordered were to keep the peace and protect the constitutional rights of citizens The governor expressed fear of possible mob violence over the dynamite killing of County Attorney Elmon Middleton this week

SHIPWRECK VICTIMS JOIN FAMILIES AGAIN

Emotions Let Loose After Ordeal Off Florida Coast on Liner Dixie

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Sept 7—Scenes of joy of glad hysteria and weeping were enacted in Pennsylvania station today when passengers of the stranded liner Dixie arrived on a special train and fell into the arms of friends and relatives

Nerves that never gave way during the perilous imprisonment on the Dixie pounding on French reef Florida keys for three days and nights collapsed completely

On the train were 200 passengers and 60 crew members taken from the hapless liner

The passengers had little baggage and most of their belongings were carried in brown wrapping paper All of the women were hatless

Every shipwreck must have a hero and the Dixie's was Henry Jaeger of Plainfield N J who knows all about wireless He helped rig up the emergency wireless over which the stricken ship sent out her first S O S

The passengers were unanimous in praising the discipline of the captain and crew of the Dixie

Some of the passengers hobbled slightly from minor injuries Officials of the Morgan line said that only four had required medical treatment

Those who were not whisked away by friends and relatives were guests of the Morgan line at breakfast

SCHOOL PWA PLANS ENDANGERED IN OHIO

Low Per Man Cost May Kill All Projects, Director. Asserts.

Ohio's entire public works program for public schools, including three new projects submitted by Delaware county communities, faced a possibility of rejection by the federal government today, The Associated Press reported in a news dispatch from Columbus.

E. L. Bowsher state director of education, asserted the entire program may fail because of the per-man year cost. A number of school projects including Upper Sandusky's $125,000 program already have been rejected.

The projects he said were based on a per-man year cost of $1,140 a year. The program, he explained was laid out after instructions from Washington that President Roosevelt had fixed that amount as the maximum for school building. Later [illegible] a year per man was fixed as the maximum, Bowsher said. He expressed hope that some action would be taken by the President to change the regulation to permit the school building and [illegible] program to be put into effect.

The three Delaware county projects among those received on the last day for submitting projects to the PWA, called for expenditure of $61,000 at Ostrander, $65,000 at Ashley and $40,000 at Sunbury.

STORY OF ESCAPE TOLD BY DRIVER

where his wife and two children and his mother live.

He said he was forced to go without food during the morning, day and night he spent in the fields, but given food by motorists several times during his trip back to Greensboro, which required about three days' time.

The prosecutor quoted Lamonds as saying he and his companion left North Carolina with a truck shipment several days before Aug. 21 and reached Columbus where a breakdown delayed them. When this was repaired, they continued to Marion.

They reached Marion without sufficient funds to buy gasoline for the truck and badly needed tires, so they stopped here late in the afternoon of Aug. 20, the prosecutor quoted him as saying. Learning from a boy on Kenton avenue that the bulk plant of the Pure Oil Co. was not guarded by a watchman at night, they decided to seek gasoline and tires there, according to the prosecutor's account of his story.

Stopped to Repair Light

Obtaining the gasoline and tires, they started on their trip again, but stopped near the city to repair a light that had failed, Lamonds related. It was at this point that police drove up and asked what was wrong. Instead of talking to police, he said they drove on and the chase followed.

Lamonds, the prosecutor said, had been released from a North Carolina work camp last May after serving 15 months for receiving stolen property. The prosecutor quoted him as saying he stored articles in his garage that a group of former bootleggers had stolen. He added that Lamonds explained he formerly had repaired automobiles for the bootleggers, but, following repeal, the bootleggers had dropped bootlegging and started stealing and that he started to conceal their loot for them.

Sheriff Miller and Prosecutor Michel left Marion for Greensboro, to return Lamonds to Marion, Tuesday afternoon. They obtained extradition papers from Governor Davey but were not required to use them because Lamonds waived extradition. They made the trip by train, except for traveling by automobile between Marion and Columbus.

OFFICIALS SEE DARK OUTLOOK FOR FUNDS

Ohio Association of County, Municipal and Township Governments, under whose auspices the Findlay meeting was held.

Officers Elected

George J. Oswald of Sandusky, auditor of Erie county, was elected president of the association, and Hancock County Auditor Frank Hoffman of Findlay was named secretary-treasurer.

Outlook in Marion county and its political subdivisions, although somewhat brighter than many of the pictures painted at Findlay yesterday, is far from sunny, Mr. Mounts said this morning. As a number of political subdivisions have not yet submitted their budgets for 1936 to county officials, a definite picture of Marion county's financial outlook cannot be drawn at this time, Mr. Mounts said.

All budgets for city, county, township, village and school district funds not yet submitted to the county budget commission should be filed as soon as possible, Mr. Mounts urged. He pointed out that the commission cannot establish a county tax rate until all budgets are filed, and that an accurate picture of Marion county's financial condition for 1936 can be drawn.

POPE PIUS VOICES PLEA FOR PEACE

By The Associated Press

ROME, Sept. 7—Pope Pius delivered a plea for peace before 20,000 former service men at St. Paul's Basilica today and announced "from our latest information, we seem to see forming on the horizon a rainbow of peace casting its rays across the world." The pontiff referred to the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

The pontiff left his summer retreat at Castel Gandolfo early in the morning to celebrate a mass for an international convention of former service men which opened with the ceremony at St. Paul's.

TWO PERSONS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Crestline Man Held After Crash: Three From Marion in One Machine.

Miss Thelma Crawford of 240 South Prospect street and R. C. Anderson of Columbus suffered slight cuts and bruises when the car driven by Mr. Anderson was struck by a car driven by Raymond Beam of Crestline last night at 10 east of Galion.

Beam was arrested by a state highway patrolman for driving while intoxicated. Police said Beam was on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred.

Miss Crawford and Mr. Anderson were released from Good Samaritan hospital in Galion after they were given first-aid treatment.

C. R. Flora and Miss Iva Johnson, both of Marion, were other occupants of the Anderson car. Neither was hurt.

RIVER DAM PROJECT PROGRAM PROPOSED

Prospects for construction of proposed small dams on Marion county streams brightened today when the state conservation division submitted to the federal public works administration today a construction program calling for expenditure of nearly $2,000,000 in Ohio's streams, lakes and fish hatcheries.

The Associated Press reported the program, if approved, would provide for construction of 1,320 small dams in streams in practically every county at a cost of $1,111,130. The dams would be used as flood control measures and to create fish pools.

The Marion County Fish and Game Protective association has been sponsoring proposed construction of three fish and water control dams on the Whetstone river in Marion county, and the suggestion has been made that a program of dam construction on small streams be carried throughout the county in sections where such work is feasible.

FOREST AND DUNKIRK PROJECTS REJECTED

Special to The Star

KENTON, Sept. 7—Voters of Forest and Dunkirk school districts who gave overwhelming support to bond issues in their territories for erection of school buildings today learned that the $15,000 Dunkirk addition and the $100,000 Forest building were included in projects refused by WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

They were cheered somewhat by word from the Ohio PWA headquarters that officials hope "Mr. Hopkins will take a more liberal attitude toward these projects."

was announced today. The Eagles band will play Wednesday, the Caledonia-Martel-Kirkpatrick school band Thursday and the LaRue-Meeker school band Friday. The bands will play in the afternoons and before the night fair program starts.

Night Fair Program

Free entertainment, in addition to the band concerts includes a gasoline rodeo Wednesday afternoon, nightly presentation of a musical comedy troupe in front of the grand stand, harness races Thursday and Friday afternoons, fireworks Wednesday and Thursday nights, pet lamb show Thursday.

Workmen today were scraping and leveling the race track in preparation for the Thursday and Friday race program, Secretary Rauh said. He added that horsemen said the track will be in excellent condition for the fair.

In addition, the inside and outside fences of the track are being whitewashed, providing a white background on which spectators may watch the progress of horses throughout the races.

The grounds except for minor maintenance work, did not require any attention this year, having been extensively improved in a CWA program two years ago, he said.

ROOSEVELT LETTER BRINGS STOCK SPREE

pushed ahead in vigorous trading to the best levels of the year as the week approached its finish. Corporate bonds were equally sought after.

U. S. government obligations were somewhat uncertain. The market for them which was badly shaken by the failure in the previous week of the federal farm bond offering, was somewhat heartened by the good reception given the $500,000,000 of treasury bonds offered early this week, but traders nerves were apparently still quite jumpy.

News from the steel trade, watched for a clue to the fall trend of heavy industry, was generally encouraging as operations took up the slight slack caused by the holiday and reports indicated automobile manufacturers were beginning to nibble at their fall requirements, with considerably better volume expected from them shortly.

At the same time the business picture was not without its minor shadows. Trade surveys discerned a distinct slackening of wholesale and retail business after the brisk summer climb, although bad weather appeared largely responsible.

side when he was picked up and taken to the hospital.

"George the Fiddler" was a familiar character not only in Marion and Bucyrus, but in other communities in the vicinity. He was blind, or nearly so, and when people touched by his plight, dropped a coin in his "money cup," they were contributing to his living expenses.

Sometimes things went hard for the aged fiddler and the contributions were small. Then he went to live at the Crawford county home for a while. Records at the home revealed that for 25 years he had lived at the home from time to time. He was last admitted Dec. 26, 1934 and stayed until he was dismissed March 7. After he left the home he lived at the Park house in Bucyrus.

The fiddler was born at Crestline. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Shultz of 150 Boone avenue and Mrs. Magdalena Kellogg of Columbus, a niece, Mrs. Pauline Barnhouse of 150 Boone avenue, two nephews, Arthur Kellogg of Columbus who is a blind musician and Ralph Potter of Philadelphia, and one brother, John Deitrich of Philadelphia. As far as relatives know, he never married.

The body was removed to the Henderson & Lutz funeral home in Bucyrus to await funeral service Monday at 2 p. m. Burial will be made on the family lot in the Crestline cemetery.

This is accomplished by means of a "hoop cradle" a device for lifting the bed clothes from the body When it is used in cool weather the patient should be adequately covered and kept free from draughts

Constant pressure is the most common cause of bed sores. As a result of prolonged pressure the skin becomes irritated breaks down and soon there is a red moist surface To prevent this the patient should be frequently bathed using luke-warm water and a pure white soap This procedure should be followed by an alcohol sponge Then dry the skin by patting and no rubbing

In caring for a sick person it is best to wash and dry one part of the body before going to another part Start with the chest then go to the abdomen the right arm back left arm left leg right leg and the face This program will give cleanliness without unduly tiring the patient with unnecessary movements

I am often asked the value of dusting powder Undoubtedly it is of some importance in the prevention of bed sores Be sure however that the powder is of a fine texture avoid coarse or granular preparations An excellent product is readily made by mixing equal parts of zinc stearate cornstarch and any good dusting powder

PLAN FOR CITY TO MEET BILLS OFFERED

Monday night for public hearing and approval does not contain any provision for payment of the old bills

"Either the old bills should be listed in the budget or some plan such as the one I have suggested made to take care of the old bills—we can't simply forget them" Mr Hoover said

Mr Hoover did not indicate what course the water company might take if council refused to consider a plan to pay the old bills or include them in the 1936 budget However it was indicated that the company probably could force city officials through court action to include the overdue water bills in the 1936 budget where they would become an obligation that would have to be paid before any 1936 operating expenses could be paid If this course were taken the city would be left with only a fraction of the money it would need to carry on normal governmental functions officials indicated

Amount City Owes

Regarding the city's overall deficit finance committeemen said the city as of Dec 31 1934 owed approximately $1… including $65 000 due the Marion Water Co for hydrant rentals and approximately $45 000 due the C D & M Electric Co for street lighting Neither of these companies has received any payments on the accounts for furnishing service in 1935 it was explained Unless some provision is made yet this year to make payments at least on the 1934 accounts of the utilities an additional $59 000 will be owing them by the end of the year however it is believed that increased payments to the city from the state sales tax in the last months of the year will make possible substantial payments on these accounts Exclusive of whatever portion of these utility bills remaining unpaid at the end of 1935 the city probably will end the year with a deficit of $8 000 to $10 000 Chairman Fishin predicted

Excerpts from the letter read to the committee last night by Mr Hoover follow

The city of Marion began the year 1935 with overdrafts of approximately $150 000 in which was included unpaid hydrant rentals due the Marion Water Co It has been our understanding that the city is willing to meet this indebtedness provided sufficient revenue can be secured to pay these bills and continue other essential services of the city

We believe that we have such a plan in mind and for that reason we are submitting it to you for your consideration The plan provides (1) for the raising of necessary funds to meet the accrued indebtedness and (2) a financial setup which will meet the operating requirements for the year 1936

The legislature has provided the means by which accrued indebtedness of this nature can be met This legislation was passed because such accrued indebtedness resulted from failure to collect taxes when and as the same became due and payable Amended senate bill No 100 provides that a political subdivision may issue without vote of the people indebtedness bonds against delinquent taxes to the full amount of such indebtedness provided said indebtedness does not exceed 70 per cent of the delinquent taxes due and owing to such subdivision These bonds are payable out of delinquent collections plus such levy as shall be necessary in addition to such delinquent taxes to meet such bonds Under this section of the general code it is possible for the city of Marion to issue sufficient bonds to meet all of the outstanding requirements

Objection of City

The objection on the part of the city to the issuance of these bonds is based on the need of the city for all of the current taxes plus the delinquent taxes for operating purposes

In order to relieve the operating problem of the city for the remainder of the fiscal year 1935 both the water company and the light company have agreed to accept a discount of 10 per cent of the amount of said indebtedness to apply on the 1935 account In the event the city will use immediately net indebtedness bonds covering their net indebtedness to the Marion Water Co as of Dec 31 1934 and from the proceeds of said bonds pay in cash to the company the total amount due as of Dec 31 1934 amounting to $67 312 75 then the water company will credit the 1935 account of the city with $6 548 23 this being 10 per cent of the total indebtedness due for hydrant rentals

It further agrees that it will thereafter during the continuance of the present contract credit hydrant rentals with 10 per cent discount provided said hydrant rentals and charges are paid on a monthly basis on or before the tenth day of each month

By this plan the city will be able to reduce its operating expenses for the year 1935 by the sum of $6 548 23 being the discount allowed on the hydrant rental indebtedness as it existed Dec 31 1934 and by the further sum of $2 484 60 being the discount allowable during the year 1935 making a total operating savings during the year 1935 to the city of $9 032 83

There will be an additional savings to the city by reason of a similar agreement with the light company, and, therefore, by issuing these net indebtedness bonds, the city can materially reduce its operating expenses for the year 1936

"The greatest objection of the city to the issuance of these bonds has been the fear that their revenue for the year 1936, by reason of the application of a portion of the delinquent taxes to the payment of these bonds, will be reduced to a point where it will be impossible to continue essential services. The second part of our plan, therefore, has to do with the revenue available to the city of Marion during the year 1936.

Law Provides Way

"At the last session of the general assembly, there was enacted the Traxler Kiefer Matthews bill and this bill provides the method by which the tax rates for each political subdivision shall be determined for 1935 and the years 1936 and following The method very briefly is this the amendment to the constitution reduced the limitation for all taxes not voted by the people from 15 to 10 mills The Traxler Kiefer-Matthews bill provides that there should be allotted to each political subdivision for both operating purposes and to meet bonds and the interest on bonds two-thirds of the average levy of each political subdivision for these same purposes during the last five years in which the 15-mill limitation was in effect two thirds being the ratio of the reduction from 15 to 10 mills

We have procured from the tax commission a record of the taxes levied for the schools city the county and the township in order to determine the tax rate for the year 1936 This information shows there will be available to the city of Marion during the year 1936 4 508 mills for both operating purposes and to meet the maturities on bonds and the interest on bonds If the requirements of bonds for the year 1936 are the same as the requirements for the year 1935 then there must be deducted from 4 508 mills a sinking fund levy of 2 44 leaving 2 368 for operating purposes The amount of money available therefore to the city for operating purposes during 1936 would be less than the amount of money available in the year 1935 if it were not for the fact that the legislature has provided the means by which subdivisions may reduce their requirements for bonds during the years 1936 inclusive so that the levy that otherwise would have been made for bonds can be transferred into the operating levy This is provided in the so-called Lawrence bill

Under provisions of this bill at any time subsequent to July 15 of each year but prior to the time provided by law for determining the rates to be levied on the current tax list of each subdivision for the ensuing year the taxing authority of any subdivision with the approval of the tax commission may issue bonds to refund outstanding bonds excluding special assessment bonds but including all other bonds issued within limitations which will mature in the next succeeding fiscal year and the principal amount of such refunding bonds up to the amount of the deficiency of such subdivision may be used to meet the deficiency

More for Operation

In the case of the city of Marion during the year 1936 $85 800 in bonds issued within limitations will mature and these bonds may be refunded and the amount of the levy represented by the said $85 800 may be levied for operating purposes

If the bonds are refunded as provided by the Lawrence bill then it will be necessary to levy for sinking fund purposes during the year 1936 only 24 of a mill leaving 4 268 mills available during the year 1936 for operating purposes If this is done then the operating rate for the city of Marion fixed in the year 1935 for the year 1936 will be 4 268 mills The operating rate fixed in the year 1934 for the year 1935 was 2 84 and there will be a gain to the city in 1936 of 1 425 mills and this additional millage should increase the revenue of the city in the year 1936 over its revenue for the year 1935 by $10 188 20

We believe therefore that the proper method of procedure for the city of Marion is to issue net indebtedness bonds to meet their indebtedness as of Dec 31 1934 which bonds will be payable out of delinquent tax collections

Thou Shalt Teach

A SERMONETTE

By REV LAWRENCE A WOOD

Pastor Trinity Baptist Church

Text Deuteronomy 6 07 "Thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children"

TOMORROW the schools will open and the children and young people will start for another year of instruction We are proud of our schools for parents know that their children will be well taught by competent teachers The proper education of youth is the national safeguard of the future But secular education however efficient is not enough Man is mind and body and more It is that something more which needs attention Man is a soul and his religious education is as important as his manual and mental training

Our churches and allied organizations have a well devised system of religious instruction Qualified teachers are busy throughout the year directing the religious training of the youth intrusted to the church Even this is not enough Parental responsibility for religious instruction can not be transferred to others There is no provision in the Bible for delegating to another the religious instruction of children Thou shalt teach them diligently to thy children

In many ways things are not right in American life The reason for this is because things are not right in the home And the trouble in the home is due to failure to observe the Bible requirement Thou shalt teach thy children The most important duty resting upon parents is to get the right religious instruction into the minds and heart of the children A wholesome fear lest one offend against God is the most effective restraint from sin and the ruin it brings

Lest parents become satisfied with occasional and formal instruction of their children the commandment is strengthened by the additional words diligently when thou sittest in thy house and when thou walkest by the way It is to be a continual teaching by oral instruction and by example through the life lived The children of the home when grown to maturity do not get away from such an influence It goes deep and leaves a lasting impression For that parental influence there is no substitute, Thou shalt teach

OPENING OF SCHOOLS WILL BE OBSERVED

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Fortunately when Emily ran away from her husband Edwin Barnes on her wedding night she fainted in the right place and landed under Dr Christopher Warde's intelligent care He restores her strength and self respect and encourages her to take a job in Birmingham and allow the [illegible] her own in situation to settle the matter of returning to Edwin She is going to have the help of her friend Charlotte in Birmingham

CHAPTER TWENTY ONE
Birmingham

"IN view of what you've been through" Charlotte said when they were settled at last in the hermit like room she called home "you look better than I dared to hope"

Emily was reclining on the bed She had tried Charlotte's chairs and given them up as hopeless "That's Dr Warde The man could graft backbone into an oyster"

Charlotte's eyes were anxious "You aren't falling in love with him are you?"

Emily twinkled "It's plain you haven't seen him He looks like a gnome And he doesn't know people are really people at all he thinks they're Cas[illegible] But he's a grand doc[illegible]"

Charlotte relaxed "Thank God for that Another complication would make me old before my time Have you had any dinner?"

Emily's eyes widened then narrowed into laughter "I was so excited over coming that I forgot all about eating"

Charlotte grinned "What a business woman you're going to be! I haven't eaten either I was late getting away from the office and I decided to wait on the chance that you didn't care for railroad food Put on your hat then infant and let's go"

[illegible] even at so late an hour crowded When Emily had tasted the food she understood the reason

She looked about her with interest and wondered what her mother's reaction would be to the idea of two unattended women in a public restaurant at this hour In her social code Frances Felton was still in the mauve decade of her girlhood

"Now tell me" she said when their order had been taken "something about what I'm going to do"

Charlotte lit a cigaret another thing that would have sent Mrs Felton into hysterics Smoking was bad enough at any time but smoking in a public restaurant—

"You don't start until Monday but I think it would be a good idea if you'd come down tomorrow and Saturday and pick up what you can Are you feeling fit again?"

"Perfectly" She was tired now but she didn't want to admit it She hated to be in that way

"That's fine And then I've got half a dozen books on advertising that will have to be your night school at first"

"It sounds rather alarming"

"It isn't It's easy enough after four years at Ardmore You can't get through there without sufficient mental equipment to make a go of this You start off knowing so much more than the average apprentice"

Emily was fleetingly grateful for the rigors of Ardmore but they seemed too far away now to be of much help "You may have I've let my mind go to seed terribly"

Charlotte was imperturbed "Probably Your letters have sounded a little weedy of late But a few weeks of intensive cultivation will help a lot

[illegible] in a table There was no such [illegible] in her vocabulary as idleness When the books on advertising were finished she devoted [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] others which they read together and which Charlotte expounded as they read

"You've got to believe in it to get anywhere" she said "This thing of building an excellent mousetrap and having the world beat a path to your door belonged to a much less complex age

"Today you have to knock a man down with your mouse trap before he even realizes you've built it And advertising is so essential that if the maker didn't advertise his wares the buyer would have to advertise for what he wanted"

"I see" said Emily "And when you've learned to believe in it what then?"

"The thing for you to do is to take these files of our ads for the past three months and study them carefully then you'll have a working idea of the sort of thing Salter's uses"

Emily laughed "You'd think that having read as many Salter ads as I have in my life I'd be able to do 'em with my eyes shut"

"Not at all You probably never even noticed the wording" She passed Emily the files "Look over these then try your hand at one for each department"

"Yes'm" Emily said meekly and set to work

When school was out they played and even Charlotte's play was constructive She belonged to the Open Forum and to the play writing group of the Little Theater

She read voraciously and Emily began to know once more the joy of matching wits in verbal combat That she decided was what she had let her mind go to seed half the pleasure of reading and thinking lay in clarifying your ideas in argument It was hard to know what you believed until you had to defend your position from assault

She took a room in the house with Charlotte and spent luncheon hours hunting French prints and a lamp whose shade was an old map of Ireland and a good wing chair

She bought a few books—old friends and new ones in the dollar editions that were such a boon to embryo advertisers It was infinitely better than Ardmore where you signed your name in a register when you went out and when you came back here no one knew or cared where you went

She met Charlotte's friends and found them as refreshing and as intensely individual as the Left Wing at Ardmore

There was Anne Campbell who did illustrating and layout work at Salter's a slim blond girl who looked Charlotte said [illegible] by herself She [illegible] beautifully tailored clothes carried smartness almost [illegible] point of ugliness and smoked innumerable cigarets in an [illegible] and amber holder

And there was Viola Barn[illegible] was Salter's consulting de[illegible] and who shared an apartment [illegible] Anne Viola Charlotte confided [illegible] a twinkle was a perfect [illegible] for Anne

She had a Junoesque figure skin like a magnolia and a [illegible] black hair that she wore in an unsteady knot low on her [illegible] Her summer wardrobe was composed entirely of dresses made herself from cretonnes and [illegible] in her own drapery department

She chose the material for their color or design and Anne told her caustically she [illegible] like one of those trick lightning bugs that people pass on and each other at Christmas Viola smiled vaguely and good naturedly at the criticism and went [illegible] one way

They accepted Emily immediately and without apparent curiosity as Charlotte's friend and asked [illegible] and Charlotte to supper on the [illegible] ond Sunday evening in Parnell

The supper was Emily's first experience in Bohemia not [illegible] unwashed Bohemia of [illegible]wich village or the Left Bank a gathering in which everyone spoke his mind and manifested a beautiful unconcern for his neighbor's private life

"They keep open house on Sunday" Charlotte explained as [illegible] entered the apartment building which Anne and Viola [illegible] "Some of the habitues belong [illegible] zoo so don't be alarmed at [illegible]"

The door to the apartment [illegible] hospitably ajar and they entered without knocking stopping [illegible] leave their hats in the [illegible]

The livingroom was surprisingly beautiful room simply and exquisitely furnished The rugs were dark green and the drapes [illegible] subdued pattern in blocked [illegible] grand piano in an alcove gave the last touch of luxury

The room was empty save for a long blond youth who was [illegible] on his shoulder blades in an [illegible] chair reading He said "H[illegible]" then dragged his eyes from [illegible] page and rose

Charlotte presented him "This is Jed Latimer He's the boy [illegible] of the Evening Post" "S[illegible]" dressed Jed "You how [illegible] fort alone"

He nodded motioning [illegible] head "They're in the kitchen [illegible]ing food I'm feeding my [illegible] stead"

Anne was in the kitchen [illegible]veloped in a voluminous [illegible] busy with French dres[illegible] round dark young man with [illegible]choly eyes sat like Humpty D[illegible] on a high kitchen stool watch[illegible] her flying hands

She greeted them gaily and introduced the young man [illegible] name was Steve Young He [illegible] to Emily without moving from [illegible] stool and she thought fleetingly [illegible] a character from "Alice in Wonderland"

The Word and the Deed.

In his inaugural address Gov. Davey said: "May I inject into this discussion a suggestion that might at first thought seem trivial, but the importance of which will later appear. There are innumerable demands upon the governor for speeches all over Ohio. No man can do a good job in this office and spend very much of his time traveling all over Ohio making speeches. There are only 300 working days in the year. Any speech at a distant point consumes a whole day. Three hundred of them in the course of a year would take all the time. It just cannot be done. I propose to be a working governor and to take the obligations of this office seriously. Time is the most precious thing we have, and I propose to divide the limited amount of available time among matters relating to the responsibility of the office in the order of their importance. It is probable that the only speeches that can be made will be a few of statewide significance."

Evidently, one or more of four things has happened. Gov. Davey may have discovered that taking the obligations of his office seriously calls for more speeches than he figured on; speaking has become the most important responsibility of the office; he considers all his speeches as being of statewide importance; he has decided it is the best policy to appear as often as possible before his constituents.

It's a good guess the last motive is the one that has been keeping Gov. Davey on the move constantly since last January. No one begrudges him the right to make speeches as long as audiences are willing and even eager to be so honored, but why did Gov. Davey go on record against his own inclination when he was making his inaugural address?

Relaxation.

The relaxation which is the theoretical advantage to the public of congressional adjournment should be manifest by this time. There has been a whole week of legislative calm. For many days no congressman has lifted his voice. The second greatest show on earth has dissolved into space from Maine to California.

President Roosevelt has retired to Hyde Park and seems interested these days in speaking nothing but words of comfort to his nervous countrymen. Everything, he is saying, is going to be all right. It's all over now, no one was killed and, after all, it didn't hurt much, did it? A long rest will fix everything.

The country, like a busy man starting a vacation, needs a little time to learn how to relax. Its nerves are still jumpy. It finds itself listening for sounds it can't hear. It even tenses itself for its return to political excitement next year. These are normal symptoms that will disappear in a few more days.

By October Americans will be adjusted to the slower tempo of placid living. There is even a chance it may be their normal state for several months or is placidity ever the normal state in a democracy? At any rate, the only disturbance in view at present is the first of the supreme court's decisions on controversial legislation, and the court's decisions, fortunately, are not scheduled in advance.

It is the state of relaxation which produces the soundest, if not the most brilliant, thinking. That is the importance of the country's new condition. There are many things to be thought through carefully before another national election calls for decisions. With most of the orators silent, thinking will be easier.

Counting Eggs.

Politicians are privileged to count their chickens before they are hatched, that being a practical necessity of salesmanship. Counting eggs isn't much sport—not in itself.

Nevertheless, it's possible to make sport of it by speculating on the possibilities of chickens. Political forecasters (not politicians) are enjoying themselves at it.

There are, they recite, 48 states. The 48 states have 531 electoral votes. It takes 266 electoral votes to elect a president. Therefore, as everybody knows, it's important for presidential candidates to carry the states which have the most electoral votes.

Those states, naturally, are the industrial states, which have the largest populations. Fourteen states, with from 55 to more than 67 per cent urban populations, command 258 electoral votes, all but eight of the number required to elect a president.

On the other hand, 26 states with from 55 to more than 67 per cent rural populations command only 210 electoral votes. A candidate must carry almost twice as many of the agricultural states to get 210 votes as he must carry urban states to get 258 votes. Eight states with populations equally divided account for 63 votes.

Thus are the eggs counted. Thereafter, speculation begins. How many chickens might there be in the eggs?

Republican chicken-counters point to the fact their party won an election recently in Rhode Island, one of the predominantly industrial states. Maybe they can win the other industrial states, which would give them 256 electoral votes. Then, if they could get Maine and Vermont from the rural group, with eight votes between them, they could elect a president.

Democratic chicken-counters, on the other hand, feel quite sure the urban states' eggs aren't going to hatch for Republicans, but for themselves and that the yield from the farm states' eggs will be in their advantage, too. Truly, it's a great sport, egg-counting.

Examination.

As the end of the rainy season in Ethiopia draws near, hope for peaceful satisfaction of Italy's ambitions with regard to African conquest declines. Two-thirds of the year have been spent in talking. It is believed to be inevitable that the last third will bring action.

It would seem proper, therefore, to relinquish what little faith remains in the conversational method of preventing war. Many Americans and Europeans have reached that conclusion. They point to Japanese invasion of Manchuria and the imminent Italian invasion of Ethiopia as proof of their suspicion that the League of Nations and the Kellogg-Briand pact never were anything but pious pretenses, foredoomed to failure by the bad faith in which their principal signatories indorsed them.

Yet, can it be said without reservation that no good has come from the attempt to establish in international law the theory that war can be averted by collective action and mediation? Is it literally true that nothing has been saved from the ruin of post-war idealism?

True, Japan has invaded Manchuria and Italy is prepared to invade Ethiopia. In both instances, however, existence of agreements caused a thorough discussion of the problems presented by the intentions of the two countries. Japan was informed in advance of the deed what other governments thought of its plans. Italy, likewise, is the beneficiary of an exhaustive discussion of its position with regard to African conquest.

This is, in comparison with original hopes for the post-war machinery of mediation and collective action to prevent war, a small gain. It is, nevertheless, a gain. Something has been accomplished—something which as recently as half a century ago would have been considered impossible. Idealists are disappointed with the inadequacy of their regulations, but how much deeper might be their disappointment if there were no regulations at all. They at least have made war a thing to be examined in advance of actual hostilities, even if they haven't been able to prevent it.

How's Crops, Neighbor?

The last place in all the United States that one might expect to hear the cheery greeting, "How's crops, neighbor?" is in New York city but a department of agriculture report discloses that the back to the farm movement has been progressing in a big way in the metropolis since 1930.

The number of farms within the city limits increased from 275 to 448 in the last five years. They have a total of 3,737 acres and a land value of $11,165,000. This is, in round figures, $3,000 an acre and if the Gotham ruralites can tell Ohio farmers how to make a profit in cultivating that kind of land the Buckeyes will be very grateful. Some of them would be thankful for information that helps them make a profit on any kind of land but that is beside the point.

The most valuable farming land in the world has been located in Manhattan as a result of the report. It is the only farm in the district, it contains five acres and it is appraised at $100,000.

Unfortunately the report does not disclose how much the Manhattan farmer raised last year nor how much of a return he received on his land. It is also impossible to learn whether he operated a roadside stand to which Manhattanites could hike for their fresh vegetables.

It may be with deliberate design that the department withholds the location of this farm. If New Yorkers learned there was one in their midst this lone bit of rus in urbe would be overrun with sightseers like the X mark on the map of yesterday's love nest shooting.

Neighborhood History

ORIGINAL MARION COUNTY.

Marion county at first contained, in addition to its present territory, the townships of Cardington, Gilead, Canaan, Morven and Washington in what is now Morrow county, and two miles more along the north side, but it did not extend south of the Greenville treaty line. The territory out of which this county was at first carved had been purchased from the Indians in 1820.

In 1822, Eber Baker laid out his town plat, naming it "Marion" after the celebrated Revolutionary general, Francis Marion. Soon afterward the prospective county in which it was located also was called Marion and the legislature of 1822-23 "set off" the county under that name, appointing three associate judges whose duty it should be to appoint the first officers. The judges appointed George H. Busby, clerk, temporarily.

In the fall of 1823, each judge having a candidate of his own, the question was submitted to a vote of the people. The people recommended Mr. Busby and he was accordingly appointed clerk and recorder for seven years.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—I have been rehearsing before the mirror at odd moments recently a cold eye for drunks. That icicle glance that sends the tiger slinking back to the jungle. If I don't master something rather good, you may not be seeing me around.

What there is about me to attract drunks I'll never know. Unless it's the set of my ears. But if there is only one stew at a party it's 100 to 1 that before the evening is half over he will be sitting in my lap or dancing me out on the porch to see which is the better man.

I cannot sit in the most obscure corner of a restaurant behind a palm without one sooner or later, staggering over in cloudy rage to know why I insulted his wife or crying on my shoulder because just 18 years ago this very evening his favorite great aunt was in a sleigh runaway.

It's not unusual when my car stops in traffic for some pickled gent to stick his head in the window and leer, "Think you own the street, eh? Come on, get out of that ice wagon and I'll beat the daylights out of you." At the theater you'll often see a strange man snoring on my shoulder with all stops out.

Out walking a dog before breakfast today occurred an incident inspiring the wail. I noticed a fetching pair of gloves in a window and dropped in to ask the price. The clerk, indifferent about the gloves, was intent on selling me something new in a union suit, one with a yard-long zipper dingus. I explained I was a confirmed two piece underwear man. But he was insistent and I suddenly realized he was sloshed to the ears. You could chin yourself on the bourbon aroma. At 9 in the morning I would annex probably the only spiffed salesman on the island. And he never did show the gloves. "What you need," he hiccupped after me clear to the curb, "is an up-to-the-minute union suit."

On a liner a few summers ago I was across corridor from the inevitable lush of every voyage. He staggered up the gangplank at the 2 a. m. sailing, in high glow and top-hat evening dress, and they trundled him off at Havre in a litter, feet up, with the horrors. The second night out he knocked at my cabin around dawn to know if I had seen his armadillo. That was a tip-off to slam the door in his face. But swimming out of a fog of sleep plus a natural sappiness, I piloted him to his bunk and comforted him until he dozed. Nightly and a time or two daily the rest of the voyage he was in my hair to help find his armadillo. I sailed for rest and quiet and wound up peering under things with him for the phantasy of a delirium. He was a congressman and not long ago in a letter he wondered if I remembered "our big bust on the Atlantic." My only tipple, outside of table water, had been mint tea.

So long have I been a magnet for gentlemen in their cups that I can gauge to a split second the time they will tune up for a cry or swing from the ankle. They never leave me in good humor with protestations of undying friendship as they do others. There was a night at a banquet in the old Holland House I played good Samaritan and taxi-lubbed a limp stew to his home in the East 60's. At his doorway there blew up the inevitable storm which I couldn't calm. The taxi driver joined him in harangue and I found he was also cockeyed. They were ready to lay me out like a rug when a passing policeman prevented possible mayhem. I considered it a break the cop wasn't plastered too. I was stuck for a $2 tariff and the cab shot away with my best top coat and an initialed silk muffler.

I used to enjoy an after midnight snack in those Coffee Pot places, set netwise on busy corners to catch the dregs of night. But I was seldom able to finish my bite. Innocently enough I was continually starting a ruckus and a half dozen men would be holding off some truck driver who insisted I had made a dirty remark. I was usually the only sober person in the place and never looked up from my plate. Or uttered the tiniest cheep.

Then that time on the avenue I touched a well dressed gentleman on the shoulder to inform him his garter had slipped its mooring. When he turned around I saw he was owl-eyed and I began looking about for a convenient shade tree to climb. Instead he grabbed me and began a sidewalk saltarello. A fellow on a bus top called down to a passing friend: "Pipe the elderly cut-ups!" And added: "Both soused to the gills." (Copyright, 1935, McNaught Syndicate.)

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Sept. 7, 1925.

The Doebert family reunion was held at Garfield park and A. Montgomery was elected president for the coming year.

Cooper Post, G. A. R., met and heard reports of the national G. A. R. convention given by Col. George B. Christian, Schiller Fogleson and Charles Wiley.

Miss Jessie Lippincott returned from Cleveland after a visit with relatives there.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Fleck and daughter Betty Bell returned to their home in Toledo after a visit with Mr. Fleck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Tobin of Sugar street.

The city board of education approved a summary of repairs and alterations for school buildings made during the preceding year. The report of the work done by janitors of the various buildings was made by Supt. Jesse H. Mason.

Frank D. Springer, 71, for many years a salesman with the Huber Mfg. Co., died at his home on East Center street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Sept. 7, 1915.

Czar Nicholas of Russia took over the full command of his country's armies. There was conjecture as to whether this meant complete elimination of Grand Duke Nicholas, who had been commanding the armies.

A report of the West Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church held in Springfield announced that Dr. Jesse Swank of Van Wert had been assigned to the pastorate of Epworth church here. Dr. G. A. Scott, who had been Epworth pastor, was sent to Westward church, Cincinnati.

A special tribute was paid by Cooper Post, G. A. R., at its weekly meeting, to all members who were 80 years old or over. The adjutant called the roll and veterans in the 80-year class answered as follows: John Millum, 86, Ralph Sprine, 84, Eber Priest, 83, Darius Landon, 82, Henry Hilderbrant, 81, Milton Marsh, 81, and O. W. Midlam, 80. Two others, Capt. J. S. Apt and Ferdinand Dennis, who were to be 80 in a short time, were included in the honor roll.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—State Secretary Hull looks around corners these days to make sure that he will not run into anyone who will ask him about Russia. All loyal diplomats under him understand that this subject is No. 1 on the list of things Mr. Hull is hoping to forget. He will be disappointed.

He does not know it yet, but the American Legion, for one, is preparing to back him up in a way. A resolution will be adopted at the Legion convention in St. Louis about two weeks hence approving Mr. Hull's noted charge that Moscow violated its non-propaganda promise. But the catch in it for Mr. Hull is that the resolution will demand severance of diplomatic relations with Russia (Legion insiders who have checked the prospects believe adoption will be unanimous).

Surrounded

Our secondary diplomats will now deny it, but they recommended recall of Ambassador Bullitt following receipt of the Soviet note disavowing propaganda pledges as far as the Third International is concerned. They are sadly disillusioned about the prospects for Russian trade and debt settlement.

But the politicians higher up said nothing doing. They thought it was good domestic politics for Mr. Hull to warn the Reds as sharply as he did, but severance of relations was another matter.

It would look very much like a confession of error, for one thing.

The situation would not be particularly bad except that the diplomatic grapevine from Moscow has informed them that the Reds do not care anything about recognition either, and would just as soon call it off.

If Mr. Hull had sent his rebuttal statement to Moscow instead of merely issuing it to the public, insiders believe the Reds would have acted.

And if all the American shouting for severance of relations continues, the diplomatic group is convinced that Moscow will try to beat Hull to severance of diplomatic ties.

That is why Mr. Hull would like to forget what he started but will not be able to.

Sea Safety

The waves which pounded the Dixie on a Florida reef caused some official spinal shudders here also.

What shivered the timbers of officialdom was the fact that, after all the fancy promises made at the time of the Morro Castle and Mohawk disasters, nothing of any importance has been done in the way of safety improvement. Not that safety regulations would have stopped the hurricane, but all officials realized that even an unavoidable sea catastrophe would have centered public attention again on the question.

You may recall that officials talked last year about measures to reorganize the inspection service, to authorize the commerce department, to order changes in construction plans, to set up an accident review board of government experts and so on.

Legislation carrying out these promises was prepared by officials but failed in the closing jam of congress.

The four sea bills which did get through were not of outstanding importance.

Action

The backstage scenes which led up to cancellation of the Ethiopian oil contract could have been written by Hollywood script men. The League was about to meet. The state department was excited by the mystery. No one could learn anything. Near Eastern Chief Murray sat at his third-floor desk, calling and conferring far and near to find out the identity of the miscreant American oil men who were upsetting the world. So they walked into his office two broad-shouldered heavy-set directors of the Standard-Vacuum Oil Co.

Murray got the details from them, told them to come back "short[illegible] to tell Secretary Hull. The secretary told Murray to get the men back as soon as possible and tell them their concession was loaded with political dynamite and must be canceled at once. Mr. Murray called them back and they promised that they would consult their offices in New York and let him know by 6 p. m. This was the deadline for advising Geneva in advance of the League meeting.

As the good old zero hour approached anxious officials gathered in Mr. Murray's office for the climax and sat around the telephone. It rang at 5:25 p. m.

The fade-out came with the happy ending announcement that the concession had been canceled and America had washed its hands clean of war-tainted African soil.

The only thing missing was a camera.

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—Here's the lowdown on that mysterious Ethiopian concession to a Standard Oil subsidiary as given by well-posted sources.

Standard of New Jersey and Standard of New York are both Rockefeller corporations—but they operate entirely independently. Un*til the latter merged with Vacuum* Oil they both had developed extensive holdings abroad but these were so divided geographically that they did not conflict. When Vacuum entered the picture it brought with it a far-flung system of foreign subsidiaries which would have had the two Standard companies stepping on each other's toes all over the map. So they got together and formed the Standard-Vacuum Oil company to take over their combined foreign business.

Officers from the two corporations were placed in charge of the joint enterprise and given a pretty free hand. They had standing orders to pick up and develop promising oil lands in any part of the world that was still unexploited. Aside from having to submit periodic reports they were left virtually to their own devices and seldom bothered to consult the parent companies. The latter for their part were not much concerned about the details of their subsidiary's activities as long as its management was doing a satisfactory job in terms of profit and growth.

Surprised

Astounding as it may seem, George S. Walden, Henry Dundas and other Standard-Vacuum officials did regard the Ethiopian transaction as a private and routine affair. Acquisition of such rights was a part of their everyday job. If war threatened, it was no concern of theirs. It would be years before they took physical possession of the resources mentioned—so why worry?

Nor is there any reason to doubt the sincerity of the original denials by Chairman John A. Brown of Socony-Vacuum and Chairman W. S. Farish of Standard of New Jersey that their companies had anything to do with the matter. Owing to the peculiar setup they probably didn't know a thing about it when the storm broke. Insiders remark that if Farish had known about it in advance it wouldn't have happened.

Equally astonishing: It is true that Standard-Vacuum officials didn't know the concession had finally been granted—though they had worked on it for months through British promoter Francis P. Rickett—until the word was flashed from Ethiopia. Publicity of that sort was the last thing they expected. Nobody could have been more surprised at the furore caused by the announcement. Their sensations were those of a man plucked from his bed in a nightshirt and planted suddenly in the middle of Times Square traffic.

Tight

They were superlatively naive—not in the least Machiavellian. They failed to foresee that Haile Selassie would use what they regarded as an ordinary backstairs dicker as a last desperate bid to win American support and to put his nation's riches beyond Mussolini's greedy grasp. That did Haile no good—but it did give President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull a glorious chance—which they promptly seized—to repudiate "dollar diplomacy."

Neither did the Standard-Vacuum people realize that their failure to consult the parent corporations in advance would make hats out of the latter's top-ranking officers. Mr. Brown and Mr. Farish in turn were a bit over-hasty about issuing denials without checking up. In the confusion of the moment everyone concerned obeyed the impulse to deny—which was the worst mistake they could have made. The situation was straightened out internally in Standard Oil circles over the Labor day week end and Messrs. Walden and Dundas were instructed to hasten to Washington forthwith and get out of the jam as best they could.

Managements of the two Standard Oil companies and their subsidiary are fully aware, too late, that they have been made to look both silly and foolish. Faces are red and ears are tingling on the inside. Several officers may be shifted or dropped when the incident has blown over sufficiently so that the connection isn't too obvious. Also it's a safe bet that the parent corporations will keep a tight rein on Standard-Vacuum hereafter.

Snare

London financial circles—undoubtedly inspired by their government—are talking up the advantages of an Anglo-American-Chinese agreement to reduce and stabilize the price of silver. That would be swell—for the English and the Chinese. American cooperation is being sought on the basis that it would benefit our treasury to be able to buy its silver cheap.

It isn't at all likely that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Morgenthau will fall for this gag. Mr. Roosevelt may have no affection for the silver senators—but he would hardly tread deliberately on their pet corns just before election. The silverites want the price pushed up to $1.29 an ounce. That's all they really care about. They are already sore because the administration hasn't heeded their advice and if the metal were permanently frozen at a low level their yells of protest would be audible at the North Pole. Their opposition might be fatal if the '36 contest is close.

So once again John Bull's carefully-baited snare will fail to entrap Uncle Sam.

Careless

New York learns that the state department was mightily relieved to get out of the Ethiopian concession mess so easily. The department is always having to intervene to settle concession arguments—though usually these are not important enough to crash the headlines.

The rival Chertok concession claim in Ethiopia is a sample of what is forever happening in dealings with "backward" countries. Such nations—especially in Latin America—have the careless habit of granting the same concession to more than one foreign group. The state department frequently has the heavenly job of straightening out these little misunderstandings.

BOUNTY JUMPING.

Bounty jumping and substituting was a common scandal of the Civil war. One who served as a substitute came to bear some opprobrium as it indicated service for gain rather than for loyalty. Those who sought service of this kind soon learned how to get the bounty and at the same time avoid service. Before being mustered in they would decamp and in some distant field negotiate for another substitute bounty. This was called "bounty jumping."

Action was taken against the practice by the army, however, even though the "jumper" had not been mustered in. There is an old newspaper account of one offender charged with 18 cases of bounty jumping, being sentenced to death by a military court martial

Arthur Brisbane's News Review

ACCORDING to "The Analys Walter Renton Ingalls, very able statistician, says this country is now short about 900,000 houses and one-family apartments. At the end of 1929 there were in this country 30,000,000 houses, about enough. There was then no over-building; population has increased by 4,592,000 since 1929.

This country needs 900,000 more houses.

The other side of the story is that landlords need about nine million more tenants, but are not able to get them under present conditions.

Mussolini's Color Line

Mussolini draws the Ethiopian color line. If an Ethiopian delegate attends league sessions his delegate will withdraw. Baron Aloisi, representing Mussolini, says he will sit at the league council table "on the condition that an Ethiopian representative is not seated."

The learned baron should know that the government of Ethiopia is not a Negro government, it is a Semitic government; only the masses of the people are of the Negro race. But that will make no difference.

Japan's White Wolf

In Tokyo, according to Universal Service, a call is issued to "Asiatic and African races to do away with the white peril." The "Great Japan Young Men's Association" issues this appeal:

"Arise, colored brothers. Slay the Mediterranean white wolf pouncing on the black lamb in East Africa. Colored brothers throughout the world, stand up and save your poor brother Ethiopians who are in the clutches of the white wolf. Slay that white-skinned beast who is threatening the innocent black lamb."

That "white peril" of Italy is ancient. It dealt with Carthage and other protesting countries long ago.

The young Japanese gentlemen ask: "What has Ethiopia done to deserve ruthless devouring by the greedy white wolf?" They might also ask: "What did the Transvaal and the Boers ever do to deserve the ruthless devouring' of their country, its gold and diamond mines by the blond English gentlemen?"

For that matter, what did Manchukuo do to deserve "ruthless devouring" by the very efficient gentlemen of the Japanese army? He devours who has good teeth. England, Italy, Japan have them.

The Black Eagle Quits

Col. Hubert Fauntleroy Julian (adopted name "The Black Eagle of Harlem") surrendered his command of the Ethiopian air force because five of Emperor Selassie's fleet of twelve "war planes" cannot be taken off the ground, and the remaining seven are capable only of extremely short flights. That will remind France of Jean un pied qui remue, et un autre qui ne vas plus.

The American colored flier intimated that "corruption and bribery by Italian agents have brought the Ethiopian air force to its low ebb."

Adding, "It is an event for any Ethiopian plane to take the air," the Harlem colonel declines further responsibility for Ethiopian victory over Italy.

Addis Ababa reports "tramps and nomads rounded up to serve as coolies with the army. When war breaks out Haile Selassie will release all prisoners for service at the front."

It is interesting also to read of eighty of the richest "traders" in Ethiopia visiting the Emperor to offer services and money. All went away with imperial decorations.

The "traders," some very rich, "splashed through Addis Ababa's muddy streets wearing black silk cloaks, riding ponies."

Hundreds of armed retainers ran through the mud on foot beside the rich "traders," reminding you of the Earl of Douglas who came to King James' court with five thousand mounted retainers, in the primitive days of Scotland.

Labor Speaks

Labor unions in a group of twelve countries condemn the aggressive attitude of Fascist Italy toward Ethiopia. Representatives of organized labor should visit Ethiopia and find out what happens to unorganized labor down there. It would surprise managers of British labor unions, for instance, to find out how much labor in Ethiopia does not get. The American Federation of Labor has not expressed an opinion.

Flying Higher

The Douglas airliner called the "Flying Laboratory" has just flown from Kansas City to Newark, N. J., through the "sub-stratosphere" which means about twenty thousand feet up. At that height very "thin" air, with engine supercharged and propellers properly "tilted" makes high speed possible. The flight was 1,125 miles, non-stop, passengers wore oxygen masks.

That will not be necessary when regular flying lanes for long distances are all above the six-mile high level, as they will be. Cabins for passengers will be airtight and super-charged as engines are super-charged now. Flying will be what it is destined to be, only when flights are made above the storm area.

Fish swim below the rough waves at the top of the ocean. Men will fly above rough waves and rough weather that all lie at the bottom of our air ocean.

The comedy is left to the capable hands of Ted Healy and Nat Pendleton. Others in the cast include Donald Cook, Robert Gleckler, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Robert McWade, Henry Kolker, May Beatty and the Chester Hale dancing girls.

"Pursuit," which follows Lewis to the West Center street theater, is a whimsical comedy in which a young couple experience adventures of every type while spiriting a child center of a guardianship suit out of the state by motor. Chester Morris, last seen here in "Public Hero No. 1," plays a role as an aviator who commercial quarrels with Sally Eilers and at the altar. The supporting cast includes Scotty Beckett of Our Gang comedies, C. Henry Gordon, Dorothy Peterson, Harold Hubebr and Henry Travers.

"Hop-a-long Cassidy," opening Friday at the Palace, should be welcome to movie goers who like class westerns. The feature was produced by Harry Sherman for Paramount pictures and features William (screen) Boyd, Jimmy Ellison and Paula Stone, youngest of the famous stepping Stones. The writer has seen the latter several times on the stage and can vouch for her appeal and talent. Also on the Friday-Saturday bill are a Popeye cartoon and Easy Aces comedy and an Our Gang

WILEY POST IN FILM

The late Wiley Post who met death in an airplane crash which also claimed Will Rogers on Aug. 16 is the star attraction in "Air Hawks," which will be shown at the Marion theater Sunday and Monday.

"THE INFORMER" ON PROGRAM AT MARION

A smash hit, "The Informer," opens the week at the Marion theater Sunday during which time six feature pictures will unwind and flash across the screen. This will be the first showing in Marion of "The Informer," hailed by first string critics in the large cities as one of three top-ranking films of 1935. The other Sunday-Monday feature is "Air Hawks," a Columbia picture featuring the late Wiley Post, Ralph Bellamy and Tala Birell.

"The Informer" features Victor McLaglen in the title role and a brilliant supporting cast which includes Heather Angel, Preston Foster, Margot Grahame, Wallace Ford, Una O'Connor and Donald Meek. Against the colorful background of Dublin, Ireland, the picture has the troubled years just after the World war as its period. With the desire to get money for Margot Grahame, his sweetheart, McLaglen, a human gorilla with the body of a giant, informs on his hunted pal, Wallace Ford, for a price. Ford is killed. With 20 pounds in his pocket and his treachery on his conscience, McLaglen becomes alternatively tortured by fear, crazed by remorse and exalted to drunken delusions of grandeur produced by his ill-gotten wealth. All of the story transpires in one action-packed night.

According to advance press notices, the late Wiley Post, who with Will Rogers fell to his death in an Arctic fog near Point Barrow, Alaska, has a prominent part in "Air Hawks," a story of the air mail and passenger service.

Coming to the Marion Tuesday and Wednesday is a return showing of Lee Tracy in "I'll Tell the World" and "Symphony of Living," featuring Al Shean, surviving member of the famous comedy team of Gallagher and Shean. The Lee Tracy feature is one of the fast-talking star's best vehicles with Lee in his familiar newspaperman role. "Symphony of Living" is a story of the concert stage.

The two features scheduled for the Marion Thursday through Saturday are "Half a Sinner" with Sallie Blane, Joel McCrea and Berton Churchill and a western, "Branded a Coward." Also on the bill is chapter No. 11 of the serial "Rustlers of Red Dog."

"Half a Sinner" is the screen version of the old stage play "Alias the Deacon," with Churchill in the dual personality role of the gambler and the deacon.

Tests of electric lamps in artificially produced fogs in a New Jersey laboratory have shown that [illegible] the penetration of fogs by light.

JOE BROWN HIT ON OHIO BILL

"Alibi Ike" Opens Four-Day Run Today; Bette Davis in Following Picture.

Two outstanding feature pictures and another edition of the March of Time will feature the week's program at the Ohio theater.

The timely theme of baseball is encased in the latest Joe E. Brown laugh hit, "Alibi Ike," opening a four-day run today. Heralded as the most hilarious film in which the mouthy star has appeared, "Alibi Ike" is from the able pen of the late Ring Lardner.

Opening at the theater Wednesday and continuing through Friday is "The Girl From Tenth Avenue" with Bette Davis in her first starring role. Augmenting the bill will "March of Time" featuring shots of Father E. Coughlin, Detroit's famous radio priest, in action.

"Alibi Ike" is a big league ball player, a crack pitcher and a batter whose average contrary to most twirlers runs around the 400 mark. He never makes a play on or off the field without alibiing it. Even when he falls desperately in love with the captain's sister-in-law he alibis about it. The main series of events in the film begin when she catches him making excuses for loving her [illegible] engagement ring. Climax of the story is when Ike escapes a group of gamblers in time to win the final game in his pajamas.

Olivia de Havilland, new screen eyeful, has the feminine lead and others in the cast include William Frawley, Ruth Donnelly, Roscoe Karns and a battery of west coast ball players.

Bette Davis' starring vehicle, "The Girl From Tenth Avenue," is based on the stage play of the same name by Hubert Henry Davies.

Miss Davis' work in "Of Human Bondage" established her as one of the screen's outstanding emotional actresses. Now she has a part in which there is not only ample opportunity for her to display her dramatic ability but to which she can bring her fine, if little recognized talent as a comedienne.

Supporting Miss Davis are two excellent British actors, Ian Hunter and Colin Clive. The latter will be remembered for his fine performance as Captain Stanhope in "Journey's End," hailed as the greatest screen drama of all time. The supporting cast includes such well known players as Alison Skipworth, John Eldredge, Katherine Alexander, Helen Jerome Eddy and Andre Cheron.

"The Girl From Tenth Avenue" deals with the adventures of a young shop girl who marries a society derelict at a cocktail party and sets about to make a man of him. Alfred E. Green directed.

JOE E BROWN IN RING LARDNER STORY

Joe E. Brown and Olivia de Havilland, who have the leading roles in "Alibi Ike," the Warner Bros. comedy based on a baseball story from the pen of the late Ring Lardner. They are on the Ohio theater screen four days starting today.

STAND-OUT FILMS ON BILL AT STATE

"Folies Bergere" and "Alias Mary Dow" Here Next Week

Two stand-out pictures, Maurice Chevalier's "Folies Bergere" and the Gaumont-British production "Princess Charming," and four other feature attractions are on tap at the State theater for the week beginning Sunday.

In filming "Folies Bergere," opening a three-day run Sunday, Darryl F. Zanuck has brought to the screen for the first time the [illegible] of all musical productions. The film played Marion early this summer. It offers Chevalier fans a double treat for the affable French star will be seen in his first dual role as his gay straw hatted singing self and as an amorous French baron whom he impersonates on the stage of the Folies and in real life as well. Two popular feminine players, Merle Oberon and Ann Sothern, are opposite the French man and the strong supporting cast includes Walter Byron, Lumsden Hare, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Halliwell Hobbes and Barbara Leonard. Roy Del Ruth directed. On the same bill is Sally Eilers and Ray Milland in "Alias Mary Dow," the story of a waitress who gives up her identity to save the life of a woman she does not know. Supporting players include Lola Lane, Chick Chandler and Katharine Alexander.

The film "Princess Charming," scheduled Wednesday and Thursday, brings Evelyn Laye, famous English stage star, and Henry Wilcoxon, British actor remembered for his excellent portrayal in Cecil B. DeMille's "Cleopatra." This new picture is said to be a lavish musical production packed with dramatic action. On the same program is "Take the Stand" with Jack LaRue and Thelma Todd. The Friday and Saturday bill will offer two features, a western, "Revenge Riders," starring Tim McCoy, and a dramatic love story, "Village Tale," with Kay Johnson and Randolph Scott.

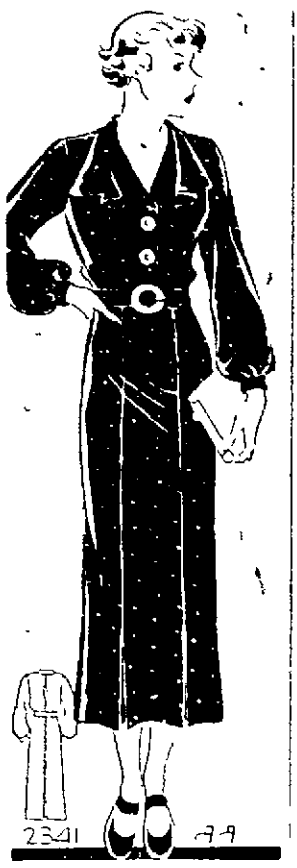
Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS



2341 PATTERN 2341

PERK UP WARDROBE AND BUDGET WITH AN ALL-SEASON, ALL-PURPOSE FROCK

Your budget will never feel the strain of a new frock if you choose this style to perk up and replenish a depleted wardrobe. Made on the lines of a shirtmaker frock it is distinguished by softer more feminine tailoring. The label collar is just right for those who like a V neck that's not too severe. There's a new and rhythmic note too in the sleeves with an inverted pleat running their entire length stitched at shoulder and forearm and released through the center. Inverted pleats contribute needed fullness in the trimly fitting skirt thus adding another style feature. Choose a crepe wool or satin.

Pattern 2341 is available in sizes 14 16 18 20 32 34 36 38 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 4⅞ yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Mullee and Loney Ceremony Is Read At St. Mary Church

MISS CATHERINE MULLEE of Dayton daughter of Mr and Mrs Frank Mullee of 364 Blaine avenue became the bride of Daniel J Loney of Cincinnati in a ceremony read this morning in St Mary Catholic church

The pastor Rev William J Spickerman read the single ring service and was the celebrant for the nuptial high mass sung at 9:30 o'clock. Miss Mullee's twin sister Miss Gertrude Mullee was her maid of honor and only attendant and Mr Loney's brother Francis Loney of Cincinnati was his best man

The bride was lovely in a princess gown of white satin made with an extremely high cowl neckline and the full sleeves were close-fitting from the elbow The skirt flared at the hipline graduating into a long train and the gown's only trim was a row of tiny buttons on the back of the bodice to the waistline Her smart double wedding veil of net was fingertip length bordered with a narrow double ruffle of the material The ruffle was repeated on the shorter veil which reached well below the shoulderline covering her face and cascading over the longer veil in the back Both were held with a small close-fitting cap edged with pearls Her flowers were white roses arranged in an arm bouquet

The maid of honor's gown was of aqua green satin fashioned on similar lines to that worn by the bride She wore a short jacket of the same material with a large brown velvet collar and belt Her small brown velvet toque had a short transparent veil and her shoes were in harmonizing tones of brown Talisman roses formed her arm bouquet

The bride's mother wore a gown of renaissance green with cut steel trimming and embroidered [illegible] colors Her accessories were in brown tones

The bridegroom's mother was gowned in ashes of roses crepe

White asters and gladioli which filled the vases on the main altar were the only decorations at the church Miss Frances Stanton presided at the organ for the mass sung by the parochial school choir and for the wedding marches

A wedding breakfast at Hotel Harding followed the ceremony The table at which covers were laid for 25 guests was decorated with asters and gladioli carrying out a color note of green and white

A reception at the Mullee home this afternoon entertained about 100 guests

Mr and Mrs Loney left on a wedding trip which will take them north For traveling the bride wore a brown ensemble made with a short swagger coat The dress had an ecru yoke with a high neckline and she wore brown accessories Upon their return they will be at home after Sept 17 in Dayton

Mrs Loney graduated from St Mary Parochial High school and the Good Samaritan school of nursing in Cincinnati She has been making her home in Dayton where she has been employed as an industrial nurse with the Ohmer Register Co

Mr Loney graduated from Ohio State university where he affiliated with Delta Rho fraternity He is a livestock buyer with headquarters at Springfield

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs Loney mother of the bridegroom Miss Helen Loney Dr and Mrs McCarthy Miss Madeline McFarland and Francis Loney of Cincinnati Miss Mary Gater Miss Mary Sachs Miss Isabel Sachs Dr and Mrs Sterling A Ashman Miss Mullee Elmer Rathweg Ray Westbrock and Irvin Hollander of Dayton Mr and Mrs Richard Lattimer and Dr and Mrs Joseph Koffolt of Columbus Mr and Mrs William McHugh and M J Pamley of Cleveland Mr and Mrs Edward Doyle Mr and Mrs Joseph McHugh Mr and Mrs Paul Navin Miss Annette McHugh of Springfield Mr and Mrs William Navin of Mechanicsburg Miss Sarah Dorsey of Chicago Mrs Andrew Omlor of Youngstown

The bride has been complimented with a number of social affairs since coming to Marion for her wedding a week ago

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Patience Proves Best Policy as The Young Offender Confesses His Misdeed

I DID NOT speak for a minute or two after Junior struggling to say to me had said huskily that although he wanted to tell me something he had done he didn't know just how.

His projected confession though I had expected it as a result of the half hour's silence I had imposed upon him upon the pretext of asking him to observe what he saw along the road with a view of making a report of it later to me involved a problem of discipline which I had not yet solved.

The matter of the crackers stuffed in the pockets of their good suits was but a minor thing. I would not have given it a thought or a reprimand [illegible] involved the crossing [illegible] of a reasonable rule one of the few laid down for the guidance of my young son and his cousin.

Delicate Problem Arises

But I had a strong suspicion born of my own observation and the comments of Mary and Williams upon the young Ryders' activities that Roderick had been meddling with the driving mechanism of the car something strictly forbidden to both boys and that if Junior had not shared in his activities he at least knew about them.

Dicky and I and Katherine ever since she has been with us have striven hard to keep the small boys from the despicable habit of tattling so easily fostered in children by the slightest encouragement [illegible] interest by more indifference [illegible] to supervise their activities.

I did not know that the confession trembling upon Junior's lips would involve his cousin in any way. It [illegible] I was sure that [illegible] he would not betray Roderick. But the problem that lay before me was how to avoid the appearance of attempting to elicit information from my small son about his cousin when Dicky had warned me that I ought to find out at once just what the boys had been doing with the cars.

You're Surely Not Afraid

You're surely not afraid of telling me anything? I said.

He burrowed his head into the shelter of my shoulder with a convulsive movement then raised it enough to permit speech.

I'm never afraid to tell you anything Mumsie he murmured but sometimes I'm awful ashamed and this is one of the times.

There was such perfect loving confidence in his voice that for an instant I wasn't [illegible] to answer him. With a fervent hope that I would never do anything to [illegible] that trust I looked down at his upturned face. I needed but the corner of my eye for the road and gave him a cheery loving smile.

It's good for us to be ashamed of ourselves once in a while. I said. It keeps us from getting conceited. Now suppose you forget about being ashamed and stop worrying about the best way of telling me things. Just start right in and tell me whatever is bothering you.

He gave a relieved wriggle and his answering voice showed me equal easing of care.

Junior Admits Guilt

"It's like this," he said unwillingly, to go to the heart of the matter. "You know once me and Rod—I mean Rod and me," he amended with painstaking conscientiousness, and an evident desire to leave no loophole open for attack, "that while we could carry crackers and [illegible] in our overalls when we went out to play we must never put any kind of food in the pockets of our clothes our best or our school suits. Do you remember?"

Yes I remember very distinctly that I told you those things. I answered [illegible] my lips twitching at the [illegible] manner in which he was relaying his confession. Why do you ask?

[illegible] Oh! the Mumsie I'll bet you guess where those crackers I gave [illegible] must have come from.

I did some rapid thinking in the next fraction of a second. I must not tell a falsehood to the child and yet I was reluctant to have him construe my attention as he might as setting some sort of trap for him.

I did not realize it when you first spoke of the crackers," I told him truthfully. "But of course it didn't take me very long to see the truth."

"Why didn't you give me the dickens right then?" he asked with an odd note of something very like reproach in his voice.

Because, I said slowly, it isn't a very pleasant thing for me to be [illegible] you of deceiving me and disobeying me. I knew that if I left you to yourself you would come and tell me the truth on your own accord.

Lee Street Drops Pleasant Team from Series, 5-0

Benny Crabtree Allows One Blow in Fifth Game

Losers Unable To Hit, Sixth Inning Is Jinx, Darnell Has Big Night at Plate; To Meet Weavers Monday

THAT ornery sixth inning jinx of teams in three games of the [illegible] World Series again brought the downfall of the Pleasant Lutheran team in the fifth game of the tourney for the city softball championship. Lee Street eliminated the Pleasant team 5 to 0 last night [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] the winners tallying four runs in the sixth and [illegible] the [illegible] up the score [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] when he [illegible] over first base.

Four [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] hits and three errors by the Pleasant club provided the [illegible] [illegible] for the fifth game. Just whether the losers could have [illegible] [illegible] remains doubtful [illegible] Benny Crabtree allowed only one hit in the third brilliant [illegible] [illegible] performance of the [illegible].

Benny Goes Strong

[illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] members of softball in Marion permitted only one Pleasant runner to reach first base [illegible] splendid fielding by Lee Street players [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Crabtree [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of softball competition [illegible] three batters put [illegible] [illegible] out himself, handled [illegible] chances without a mishap and kept the Pleasant batters popping up to his team mates.

The Lee Street aggregation, which now must turn back Silk Mill twice to win the city championship, had 11 [illegible] without an error. Six misplays added materially to the downfall of Pleasant and [illegible] [illegible] from the race after one victory and two defeats.

Lee Street scored its first run in the second inning when Johnny Marshall walked. Lashey forced him at second. Darnell singled to send Lashey to second. A passed ball gave Lashey third base and the Lee Street outfielder scored as Wade Conkle flied out to Leffler in centerfield. Leffler snapped a long throw to the home plate but it was wide and the ball went through Ivan Somerlot, Pleasant catcher.

Until the fatal sixth the game had many earmarks of a 1 to 0 win for Lee Street. Burnell Selter, Pleasant Lutheran shortstop, gained the only hit off Crabtree in the [illegible]

Darnell Hitting

With two men out in the sixth inning, Kerr Conkle scored the only [illegible] blow of the game, a double to left field. Bill Darnell, with three straight singles, led [illegible] all of the hitting honors for Lee Street until Conkle connected.

Darnell had a field night [illegible] the Pleasant team. In addition to batting 1000 he made 13 putouts at first base without an error. Some of the throws were hard [illegible] [illegible] to the first [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] He gathered them all in, including a leap in the air to retire Weiss in the fifth.

Big Test Monday

Crabtree will face his big pitching test Monday night when the Lee Street team opposes Silk Mill in what will be the last game of the [illegible] unless the Weavers drop a decision. Benny Crabtree will face Maynard Snyder, ace 1935 hurler of Marion, who has pitched two teams, Silk Mill and Forest Lawn, into the Little World Series. A victory over the veteran Crabtree Monday night would climax a remarkable season.

After [illegible] playing in two games [illegible] many [illegible] could be seen in the play of Pleasant team. Fielding [illegible] weak at times. Coxie Weiss had trouble with his deliveries and the Pleasant batsmen just couldn't [illegible] the apple.

Several sparkling plays in the field kept the Pleasant performance from being too drab, one of [illegible]. Starling Somerlot, Pleasant left fielder, provided the outstanding bit of work when he nabbed a catch of Kerr Conkle's fly to [illegible] [illegible] to catch Braham off the sack. The [illegible] coming in the third inning brought the first double play started in the outfield in the second series.

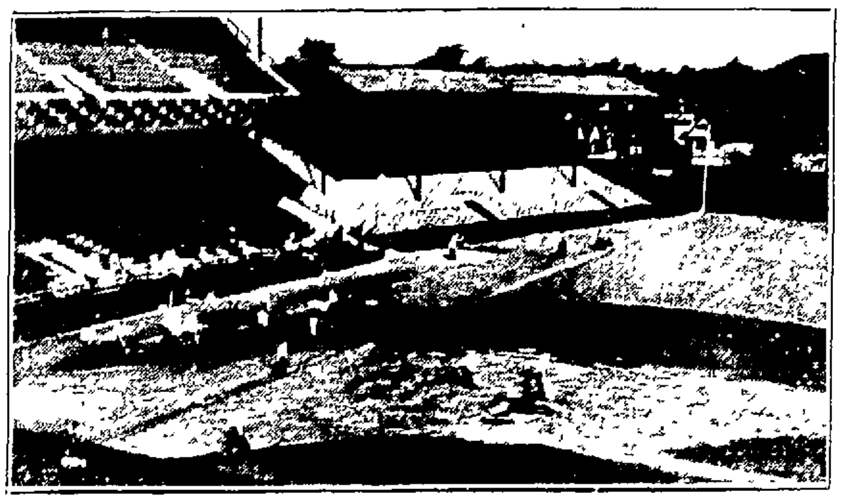
TIGERS, SURE OF PENNANT, BUILD NEW BLEACHERS



World Series fever gripped Detroit as the Tigers left for a swing around the eastern circuit. The front office gave the go ahead signal and workmen immediately began construction of additional bleachers and improvement on the grounds, figuring Detroit's big lead in the American league would stand up until the end of the season. World Series Bug Lights in Tigertown Early as Team Widens Margin of Lead

By WALTER L. JOHNS
International Illustrated News Writer

DETROIT, Mich. — Although world series time is still a good month away, Detroit already has gone baseball crazy.

Of course Detroit hasn't won the American league pennant but any baseball nut in this baseball town will tell you the pennant is in the bag.

Mickey Cochrane gave Detroit a pennant last year and they didn't know how to take it for a baseball pennant was something new to Tigertown. Ty Cobb turned the trick but [illegible] [illegible] of another age. But Detroiters celebrated and they celebrated big.

Everywhere you go you are given the baseball sign which is "Whatta team, whatta club. Isn't Mickey Cochrane the nuts? What do you think of the Schoolboy now? The Tigers couldn't repeat, huh? So they won last year on luck? Isn't Hank the dirndest slogger you ever saw" and so forth goes the conversation.

Tigers Out In Front

The Tigers are out in front enough at this writing and playing heads up baseball to virtually assure the team the pennant should injuries keep away. That's the way Tigertown fans figure and meanwhile they're putting their baseball frenzy in practice.

The recent series with the Yanks in which the Tigers did quite a little humiliating set the spark to the pent up baseball fireworks. Thousands upon thousands attended the games and thousands upon thousands heard the play by play over the radio in the stores, on the street corners and in the [illegible] rooms.

The newspapers are cluttered with deluge of the team. Other sport news is just so much paper filler. Everyone knows the history of the players, the team, the home life of Cochrane, what he eats for breakfast and whether Edna is still rooting for the Schoolboy.

Most of the places of assembly, the restaurants, pool halls, drinking establishments carry looming [illegible] feats of the Tigers. Street hawkers keep busy hawking autographed photos, pennants and emblems of the Detroit ball team. Every day the club plays at home the attendance is enough to make the magnate's happy.

One thing noticeable about the ravings of the fans is the result of last year's world's series. The Tigers took a beating from Dizzy Dean and his bunch and [illegible] [illegible] probably figure the fans to forget about the spilt milk. But all Tigertown is pulling for the team to take the world's series this year if they can first coast to another pennant.

The Tigers maintain a comfortable lead and barring no bad breaks should take the pennant. That is exactly what the Detroit fans will tell you and you may agree they ought to know.

COLUMBUS DEFEATED IN LAST 1935 GAME FOR HOME DIAMOND

Kansas Blues in Tough Spot, Indianapolis Leaps Onto Mike Ryba

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The Kansas City Blues' current threats to Indianapolis' hold on second place in the American Association found themselves in a tough spot today in opening a series with the Minneapolis Millers.

The Blues were three and one half games behind the Indians and in addition had a margin of only one game over the fourth place Columbus Red Birds. They needed an edge in the series with the league leading Millers to help in their pursuit of the Indians as well as to protect their advantage over Columbus.

The Millers sailing along toward the title increased their lead over Indianapolis to five full games by defeating Milwaukee twice yesterday. In the first game Archie McKain held the Brewers to six hits, aiding in a 6 to 1 Miller victory. In the second, [illegible] [illegible] hits including Joe Hauser's 32nd homer and another circuit clout by [illegible] Hill [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] pitching gave Minneapolis a [illegible] to [illegible] decision.

Indianapolis made it four out of five in its series with Columbus by batting Mike Ryba, the league's leading hurler, for a 9 to 4 victory in the final home game for Columbus.

Although outhit 17 to 10, Toledo defeated Louisville 10 to 9 in a night game. Kansas City and St. Paul were kept idle by wet grounds.

RICE, PITT STRONG, BUT COACHES FEAR THREATS OF FOEMEN

Jock Sutherland Needs Nine New Panthers To Replace Lost Stars

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 7.—The maxim that the Southwest Conference football title never spends more than a year at the same school is not worrying Jimmy Kitts, young head coach of Rice Institute's defending champions, but some of the teams on the Owls' schedule are.

The more enthusiastic Rice supporters are predicting that the Owls will sweep through their tough 11 game schedule without defeat. Kitts, who brought Rice a title in his first year as head coach, can't see it that way.

"I'm not afraid of the jinx that pursued past champions," Kitts said. "But I do have a wholesome respect for Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Texas and in fact all our other opponents."

Kitts feels that his charges will be strong but that they will have no monopoly on strength and that any semblance of over confidence likely will prove fatal.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 7.—If Pittsburgh has nothing else this year except the usual horde of massive football players and as tough a schedule as there is in the country—the Panther tradition of quarterbacks who look like overgrown tackles will be maintained.

This year, with only Verne Baxter on one end and Bob LaRue at halfback surviving the mighty array that lost only to Minnesota in 1934, the new quarterback will be one Arnold Greene, a 205-pound junior from Huntingdon, Pa.

Greene is one of the bright lights in a dark world for Dr. Jock Sutherland, the Scotch dental professor who in the past 10 years at Pitt has coached teams that won 79, lost 10 and tied 8.

He calls signals like a trainman, kicks like a kangaroo and runs about as fast, says the Pittsburgher calmly.

Sutherland must turn chiefly to sophomores to fill the breaches left by such stalwarts as Charles Hartwig and Ken Ormiston, guards; Center George Shotwell, fullbacks Izzy Weinstock and Heinie Weisenbaugh, Tackles Bob Hoel and Stan Olenjniczak, Mike Nicksick at halfback, Harvey Rooker at end and Miller Munjas.

Sutherland feels that if the Panthers can get past Notre Dame, beaten for three straight years, everything will turn out all right.

The schedule:

Sept. 28, Waynesburg; Oct. 5, Washington & Jefferson at Washington, Pa.; 12, West Virginia; 19, Notre Dame at South Bend; 26, Penn State; Nov. 2, Fordham at New York; 9, Army; 16, Nebraska; 28, Carnegie Tech; Dec. 14, Southern California at Los Angeles.

These plays will be drilled intensively next week as preparations are made for the opening 1935 game. Only [illegible] periods will be devoted to [illegible] [illegible] next week, the Pre[illegible] working well at blocking [illegible] tackling in recent sessions.

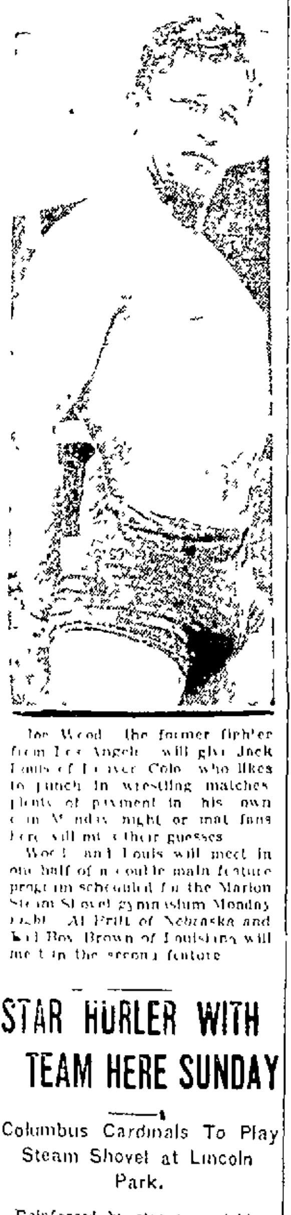
Injuries kept a few [illegible] players along the sidelines [illegible]. Noticeable among the [illegible] who Cramer kept to the [illegible] were Dwight Fuhy, [illegible] candidate and varsity basketball center and David I[illegible] who has been bothered with his old [illegible] injury.

Working with the first string [illegible] yesterday afternoon were [illegible] Frazier, [illegible] Peacock, [illegible] and Bob Custer, [illegible] Conroy and several other [illegible] field candidates also showed [illegible] as teams were lined up for the first time yesterday.

In [illegible] Coach Cramer [illegible] [illegible] to have a capable kicker [illegible] has been getting away some good punts in recent practice sessions and may be called upon to handle much of the kicking. Little work in passing has been done this week and as a result no outstanding work in flinging aerials has been seen.

Laterals have come in for [illegible] of attention and this year's [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] be about all [illegible] will attempt in its first encounter. On the line Bill Brady and [illegible] end, Joe Moore and [illegible] tackles, [illegible] and Junior [illegible] guards, Foreman [illegible] were doing well this past week.

WILL MEET LOUIS



Joe Wood, the former fighter from Los Angeles, will give Jack Louis of Denver, Colo., who likes to punch in wrestling matches, plenty of payment in his own coin Monday night or most fans here will miss their guesses.

Wood and Louis will meet in one half of a double main feature program scheduled for the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium Monday night. Al Britt of Nebraska and Bad Boy Brown of Louisiana will meet in the second feature.

STAR HURLER WITH TEAM HERE SUNDAY

Columbus Cardinals To Play Steam Shovel at Lincoln Park.

Reinforced by stronger pitching the Columbus Cardinals will come to Marion Sunday afternoon for their second baseball game with the Marion Steam Shovel nine at Lincoln park.

The Columbus team dropped a 5 to 3 decision here Aug. 18 when rain allowed only 1½ innings to be played. The Cardinals have given the undefeated Marion Steam Shovel team its hardest game of the season and are out to spoil the Diggers' record in the second try.

Ray Morbitzer, brother of the pitcher who faced the Steam Shovel here last month, will pitch for the visitors. Morbitzer has been scouted by several pro teams and may get a chance to show his wares in the big time next season. Darnell and Frazer are expected to divide pitching honors for the Marion team.

The Diggers will be without the services of Bob Van Scoy, stellar outfielder, who was injured in the Little World Series. It is believed that the remainder of the Diggers' lineup will be intact.

TIGER BOSS INVESTS $55,000 IN PREPARING FOR WORLD SERIES

F. J. Navin Takes Big Gamble, He Says, 125 Workmen Busy at Detroit Park

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Sept. [illegible]—Frank Navin has $55,000 that says the Detroit Tigers will be in the World Series next month but don't try to get him to admit that the [illegible] Bengals have anything like a strangle hold on the American League flag.

The Tiger club president [illegible] willing to bet the $55,000 that his club wins the pennant. But he is laying that sum "on the line" at the rate of $300 an hour for improvements to Navin Field necessary for the staging of baseball's annual classic.

"It's a gamble we have to take; we can't wait any longer," he said today. "I'm not saying the Tigers will win the American League flag. That's not certain. Too many things can happen in baseball to say a team is a certain winner before it actually is."

About 125 workmen are busy resodding the infield, moving the scoreboard to rightfield and building bleachers which will increase the park's seating capacity from 29,000 to about [illegible]6,000.

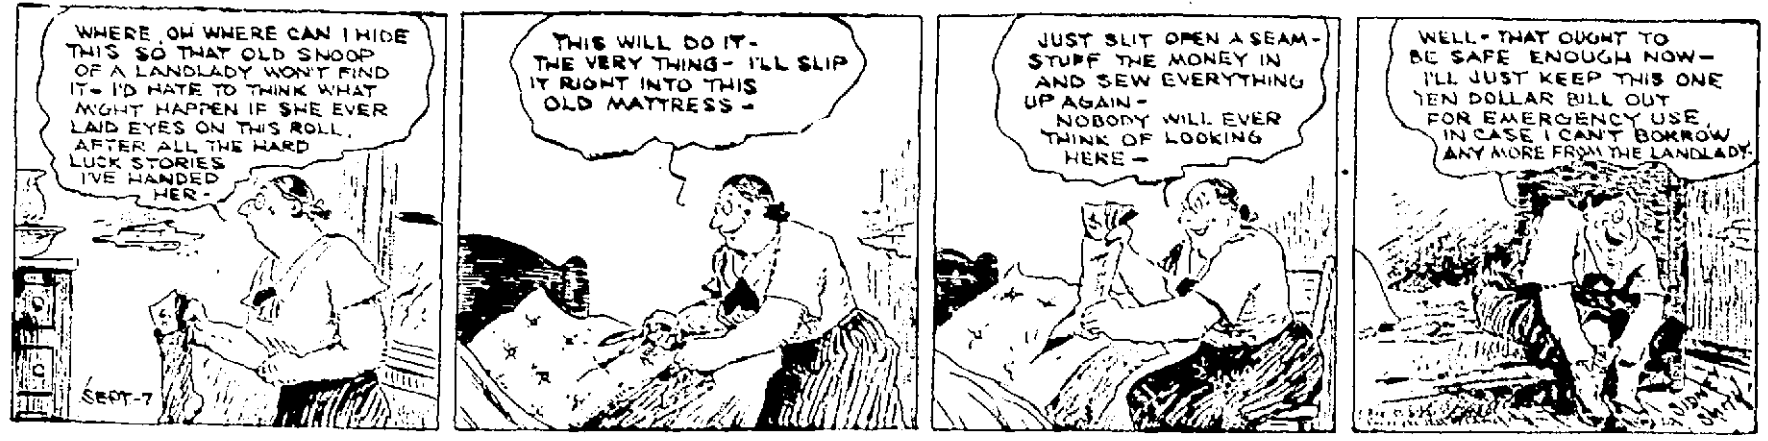
THE GUMPS

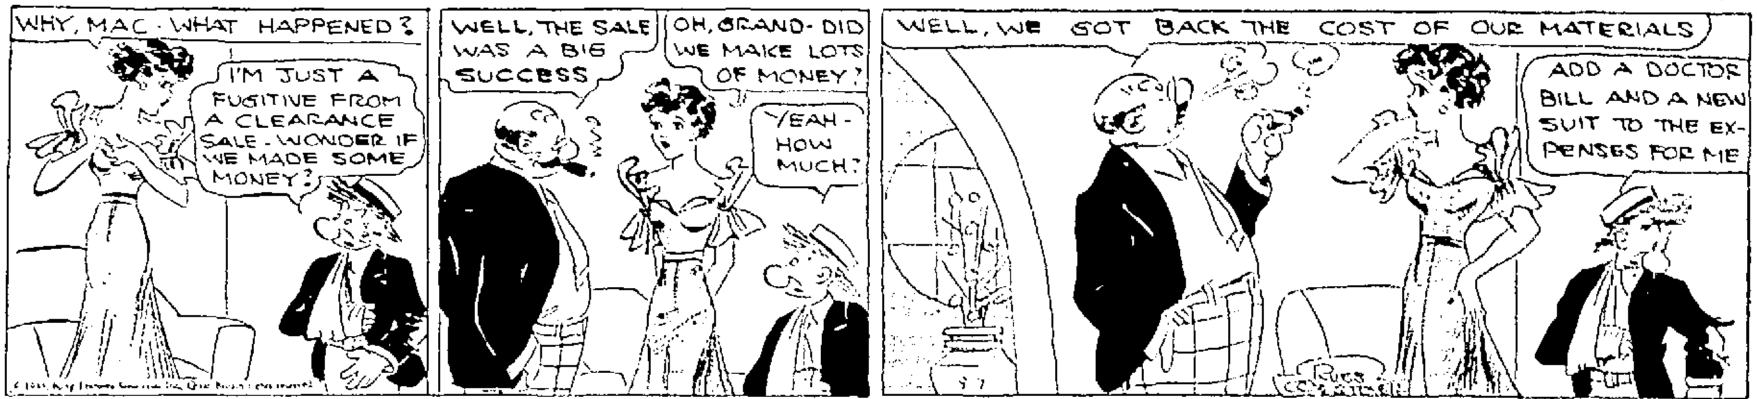
BY SIDNEY SMITH



WHERE, OH WHERE CAN I HIDE THIS SO THAT OLD SNOOP OF A LANDLADY WON'T FIND IT- I'D HATE TO THINK WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN IF SHE EVER LAID EYES ON THIS ROLL, AFTER ALL THE HARD LUCK STORIES I'VE HANDED HER-
SEPT-7
THIS WILL DO IT- THE VERY THING- I'LL SLIP IT RIGHT INTO THIS OLD MATTRESS-
JUST SLIT OPEN A SEAM- STUFF THE MONEY IN AND SEW EVERYTHING UP AGAIN- NOBODY WILL EVER THINK OF LOOKING HERE-
WELL- THAT OUGHT TO BE SAFE ENOUGH NOW- I'LL JUST KEEP THIS ONE TEN DOLLAR BILL OUT FOR EMERGENCY USE, IN CASE I CAN'T BORROW ANY MORE FROM THE LANDLADY-
SIDNEY SMITH

TILLIE THE TOILER

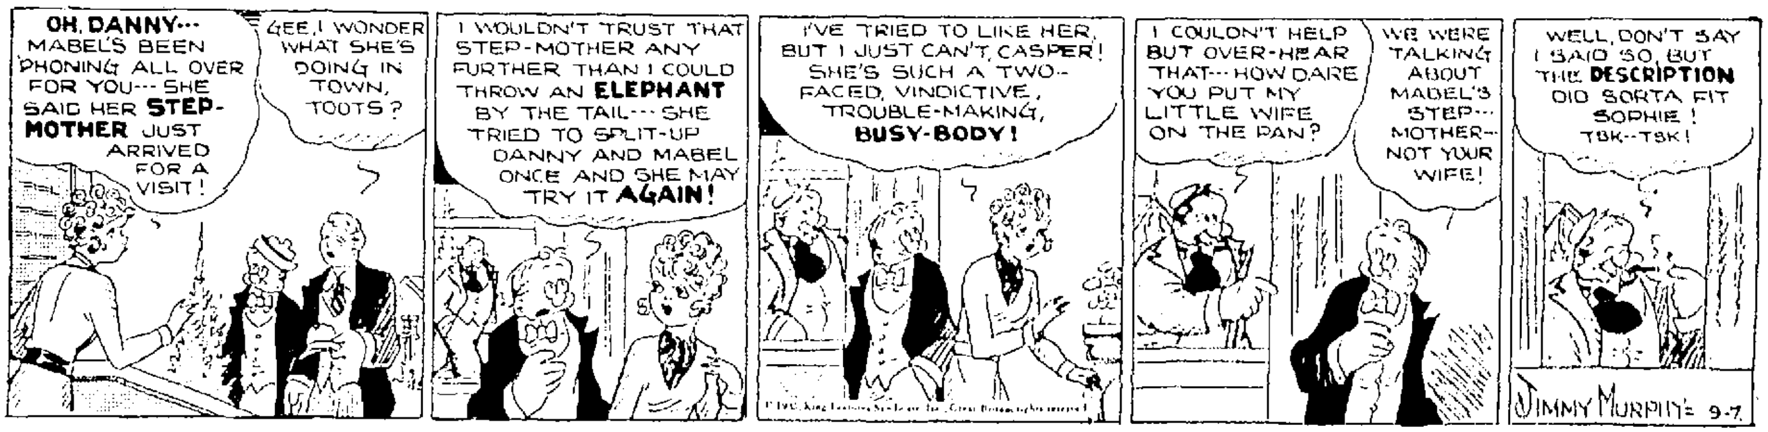
BY RUSS WESTOVER



WHY, MAC - WHAT HAPPENED?
I'M JUST A FUGITIVE FROM A CLEARANCE SALE - WONDER IF WE MADE SOME MONEY?
WELL, THE SALE WAS A BIG SUCCESS
OH, GRAND - DID WE MAKE LOTS OF MONEY?
YEAH - HOW MUCH?
WELL, WE GOT BACK THE COST OF OUR MATERIALS
ADD A DOCTOR BILL AND A NEW SUIT TO THE EXPENSES FOR ME
RUSS WESTOVER

TOOTS AND CASPER

BY JIMMY MURPHY



OH, DANNY--- MABEL'S BEEN PHONING ALL OVER FOR YOU--- SHE SAID HER STEP-MOTHER JUST ARRIVED FOR A VISIT!
GEE, I WONDER WHAT SHE'S DOING IN TOWN, TOOTS?
I WOULDN'T TRUST THAT STEP-MOTHER ANY FURTHER THAN I COULD THROW AN ELEPHANT BY THE TAIL--- SHE TRIED TO SPLIT-UP DANNY AND MABEL ONCE AND SHE MAY TRY IT AGAIN!
I'VE TRIED TO LIKE HER, BUT I JUST CAN'T, CASPER! SHE'S SUCH A TWO-FACED, VINDICTIVE, TROUBLE-MAKING, BUSY-BODY!
I COULDN'T HELP BUT OVER-HEAR THAT--- HOW DARE YOU PUT MY LITTLE WIFE ON THE PAN?
WE WERE TALKING ABOUT MABEL'S STEP--- MOTHER-- NOT YOUR WIFE!
WELL, DON'T SAY I SAID SO, BUT THE DESCRIPTION DID SORTA FIT SOPHIE! TSK--TSK!

SILAS STRONG ATTORNEY ONE FLIGHT
IF THE CHILD YOU MENTION HAS A LEGAL GUARDIAN, YOU CANNOT ADOPT SAID CHILD WITHOUT THE WRITTEN CONSENT OF SAID LEGAL GUARDIAN. I AM SORRY... BUT LAW IS LAW
IN FACT, IT IS ILLEGAL FOR YOU TO KNOWINGLY HARBOR THE CHILD WITHOUT CONSENT OF HER LEGAL GUARDIAN. HOWEVER, WE WON'T GO INTO THAT- MY ADVICE IS TO SAY NOTHING UNTIL I HAVE TIME TO INVESTIGATE MATTERS

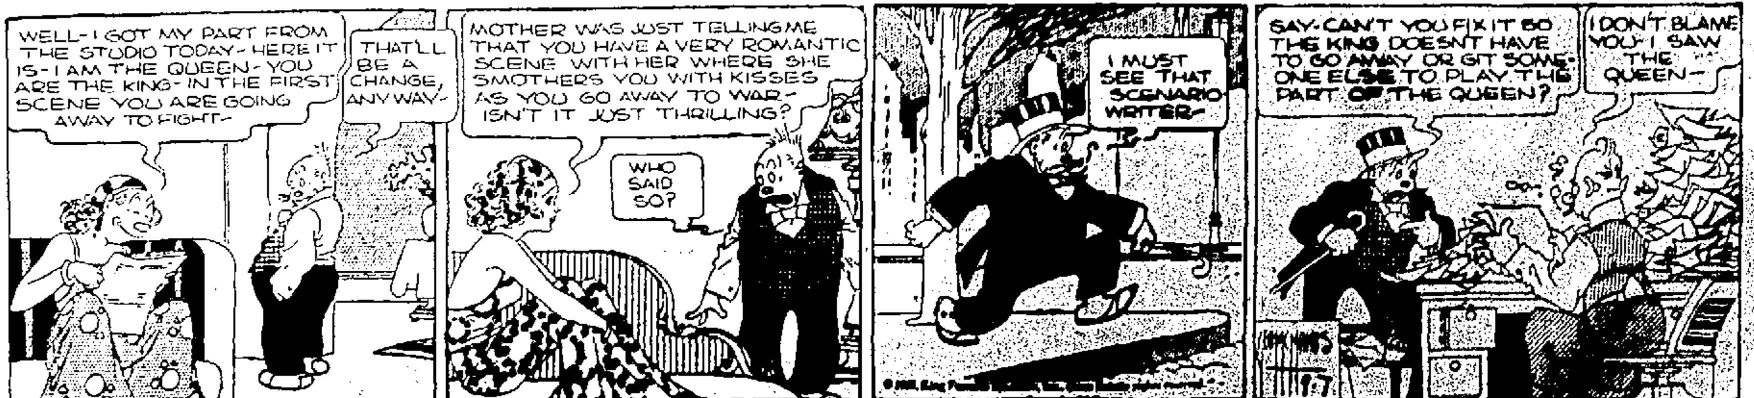
BRINGING UP FATHER

BY GEORGE McMANUS



WELL- I GOT MY PART FROM THE STUDIO TODAY- HERE IT IS- I AM THE QUEEN- YOU ARE THE KING- IN THE FIRST SCENE YOU ARE GOING AWAY TO FIGHT-
THAT'LL BE A CHANGE, ANYWAY-
MOTHER WAS JUST TELLING ME THAT YOU HAVE A VERY ROMANTIC SCENE WITH HER WHERE SHE SMOTHERS YOU WITH KISSES AS YOU GO AWAY TO WAR- ISN'T IT JUST THRILLING?
WHO SAID SO?
I MUST SEE THAT SCENARIO WRITER-
SAY- CAN'T YOU FIX IT SO THE KING DOESN'T HAVE TO GO AWAY OR GIT SOMEONE ELSE TO PLAY THE PART OF THE QUEEN?
I DON'T BLAME YOU- I SAW THE QUEEN-

SLAYER OF BRIDE BOUND FOR LORAIN

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7—Chief of Police Theodore Walker of Lorain O said he would leave today with Joseph J. Meluch, 37, confessed slayer of his 21-year-old bride, Dorothy, at their home, in Lorain, Aug 14

Meluch, an amateur detective, had previously signed a waiver of extradition for his return to Ohio

In a calm recital he told Chief Walker and St Louis officers yesterday that he killed his wife by striking her over the head with the butt end of a gun after she had resumed the old argument about his over friendliness with other women
